B52s Hit Red Buildup Points

... VIOLATIONS EXCEED 238

Saigon (AP) —High altitude American bombers followed up a brief lunar new year truce Tuesday with spoiling raids on the enemy's favorite buildup points in the jungles northwest of Saigon.

Although a week-long truce declared by the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front still has four days to go, enemy harassing attacks continued up and down the nation. Most of these were small, but the allied command counted 238 violations before ceasing to keep a tally.

Almost 60 Sweeps

The allied truce of 24 hours ended at 6 p.m. Monday and offensive operations were resumed immediately — almost 60 battalion-size sweeps.

The U.S. Command said that during the period when the allied and the Communist truces coincided, eight Americans were killed. The enemy lost 151 dead. The South Vietnamese lost at least four killed.

The U.S. Command reported the high altitude B52 raids started soon after the allied truce ended, with three saturation strikes in an arc above Tay Ninh City near the Cambodian frontier and a fourth strike just north of Saigon — close enough to rattle windows in the capital. Lighter planes raided a Viet Cong bunker complex seven miles west of the city.

Most Festive

The major population centers experienced a relatively quiet Tet, the most festive period of the year for the Vietnamese.

Unlike last year, however, when most Vietnamese celebrated far into the night and then woke up to the heaviest enemy offensive of the war, the celebrations were generally restrained.

U.S. artillery opened up on troop concentrations near Kontum, in the central highlands 250 miles north of Saigon, only 45 seconds after expiration of the 24-hour cease-fire.

Military spokesman said the allies would ignore the rest of the Viet Cong's proclaimed seven-day cease-fire.

The chief enemy push came before dawn Monday when about 500 North Vietnamese hit a U.S. Marine artillery base on the Laotian frontier.

Stopped Short

Associated Press correspondent Richard H. Pyle reported from Marine headquarters in Da Nang that the North Vietnamese attack, in four waves in four hours, was stopped short of the Leatherneck artillery pits with close-quarter fighting in which gunners lowered their howitzer muzzles to point-blank range. Thirty enemy soldiers were counted dead on the wire. Marine casualties were four dead and 20 wounded.

'YOU CAN COME DOWN NOW'

Sheriff's deputies in Jefferson Parish, La., flush a suspect from the attic of a house in Metairie early Monday during a crackdown on drug trafficking. The deputies arrested 13 persons, most of whom were between 18 and 28. The arrests came on the heels of the filing of narcotics charges against 39 persons in nearby New Orleans.

Council To Seek Voter Okay Of Salary Boost

By TOM EKVAL
Star Staff Writer

The City Council voted Monday to place a charter amendment on the April 8 primary election ballot which would increase council members salaries to $300 a month.

The salary hike, which would increase salaries to $3,600 year, is below the $5,000 figure recommended by the Charter Revision Committee. Council members presently get $20 per meeting.

Councilman Carroll Thompson, who is not seeking re-election, recommended the $300 a month salary.

Thompson said the salary is compatible to the average salary councilmen throughout the nation get in cities the size of Lincoln.

"The salary should be sufficient enough to attract citizens to serve the community," Thompson said.

Councilman Bill Davidson, who indicated he favored the $3,600 salary over the $5,000 one, said he did not believe the size of a salary should be the enticing factor to get a citizen to run for office.

"Actually, the proposed salary does not even pay for the time spent on council activities," he said.

A motion by councilman John Comstock to make the salary amendment read "up to $300 a month" was rejected by the other council members.

The original resolution prepared for council approval was rejected by the council members.

The resolution would repeal the requirement that the mayor get more than his department heads as well as increase council members' salaries.

The approved ordinance was limited to the salary issue with the possibility remaining that the mayor's salary provision could be changed in another amendment which could be submitted to the voters in the May election.

Mrs. Wendell Gauger, president of the Lincoln League of Women Voters, voiced the clubs opposition to repeal of the mayor-department head provision.

Davidson said the city has been unable to hire a large number of possible technicians because the present provision requires their salaries to be lower than that of the mayor.

Comstock agreed with Davidson and noted that the city must pay what such persons would draw on the market.

Mrs. Gauger argued that the city can pay any director any salary that is needed to hire him.

"All that is required under the present charter is that the mayor be paid an annual salary more than the highest paid director," she said.

Mrs. Gauger said the salary provision involves a philosophy of government that the mayor should be the highest paid official.

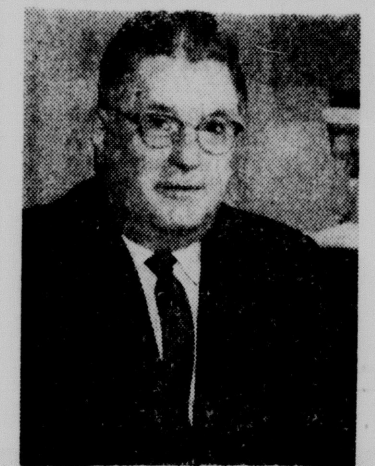

She indicated that submitting two different proposals — set higher council member salaries and repeal the mayor-director relationship — would be likely to confuse the voters.

(For more on council meeting see Page 11.)

Comstock Won't Seek Another Council Term

None of the three city councilmen whose terms are up this year will be seeking re-election in the April 8 primary election.

Councilman John Comstock, a three-term veteran, announced Monday during the

JOHN COMSTOCK

City Council meeting he will not seek another term.

Comstock joins councilmen Lloyd Hinkley and Carroll Thompson in announcing plans to retire from office.

Hinkley and Thompson had announced earlier they would not be seeking another term.

All three indicated that a salary hike would not affect their decision.

Comstock said he had enjoyed the time he spent on the council but indicated increased business responsibilities had influenced his decision not to run.

"In spite of the many hours spent, the controversies and sometimes heated arguments, the occasional disappointment of defeat — even in spite of the criticism, sometimes perhaps justified and sometimes totally uncalled for, and by persons in responsible positions who

Wisconsin Guardsmen Fix Bayonets; S.F. State Strikers Try New Tactic

By The Associated Press

New student disorders flared Monday at the University of Wisconsin and at San Francisco State College.

Scores of National Guardsmen with fixed bayonets moved in on a demonstration at Wisconsin, but it ended without violence.

At San Francisco State, the spring semester got off to a rocky start as Negro students broke up a class taught by a professor opposed to a faculty strike.

New Tactic

However, striking students and teachers went to classes at San Francisco to prevent cancellation of new classes for lack of attendance. They vowed to resume the strike once the new curriculum is established.

At Notre Dame University in South Bend, Ind., which has been relatively free of protests, the president announced he would expel students and prosecute nonstudents who try forcible disruption. The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh said he would give demonstrators 15 minutes for "meditation" before moving against them.

The new trouble at Wisconsin apparently delayed immediate withdrawal of the 1,900 National Guardsmen assigned to the Madison campus by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

Hundreds Chant

Several hundred students surged through an administration and classroom building chanting, "Support the black demands, support the black demands."

After the guardsmen moved into the area around the building, Bascom Hall, several hundred students locked arms and marched off the campus.

They blocked traffic for 10 minutes at a busy intersection several blocks away until dispersed by police and guardsmen.

Cancellation Feared

At San Francisco State, the return to class was a new tactic by the dissident teachers and students. Members of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers handed out leaflets explaining that the new classes might be cancelled if nobody showed up.

Many of the 18,000 students returning to the campus paused to inspect damage to permit the assessor to make a blanket extension in a county hit by severe storms or other disasters.

Sen. Burbach said the tax commissioner's office advises that farmers in eight snowbound Northeastern Nebraska counties are facing a hardship in getting their assessment schedules filed by March 1.

In other action, the committee advanced on a 7-0 vote a bill exempting the state sales tax on motor vehicles purchased by the administration building caused by two homemade bombs Sunday.

Acting President Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, vowing to keep the school open under police guard if necessary, called the second bombing in four days "just another of the neo-Fascist actions" of the dissenters.

Professor Harassed

The professor whose class was broken up by Negro students was Dr. John Bunzel, who previously had found a bomb at his door, his home burglarized and his car disabled.

The students paraded and shouted "racist!" and "pigs behind the curtains!" The latter remark apparently referred to the curtains in the auditorium where the class had been moved because of increased enrolment.

Bunzel dismissed the class after futile attempts to continue.

disabled war veterans with funds substantially contributed by the Veterans Administration.

The measure, LB254, introduced by Sen. William F. Swanson of Lincoln, was supported by veterans organizations and State Veteran Affairs Director James Smith.

A second measure, LB256, principally introduced by Swanson, proposed to exempt Nebraska servicemen from payment of the state income tax during their period of service.

Swanson said he is advised Nebraska has 20,000 servicemen, and the fiscal impact is estimated at $500,000 annually in exempted income taxes.

The committee held the measure for further study at Swanson's request being advised possible amendments would be suggested later.

State Income Tax Chief Kent Kalb told the committee that Nebraska servicemen in combat zones or recuperating from war wounds are now exempt from the state income tax, but that LB256 as drawn would only extend the time in which Nebraska servicemen would have to pay an income tax liability.

Highway Conditions Reported Improved

Roads throughout most of the state were in near normal condition Monday, except in the northeastern portion where there was still some one-way travel, State Department of Roads officials said.

Generally all highways improved during the day due to temperatures in the 20s and 30s. Many of the roads in the northeast were opened to two-way traffic.

Roads in the western part of the state remained in normal condition Monday, despite one to two inches of new snow during the day in the Sidney, Kimball and Chappell areas.

Norfolk had the most snow on the ground Monday with a total of 16 inches. About 5 inches was from previous snowfalls.

Heart Seizure Is Fatal To Aquanaut In Deep

Long Beach, Calif. (AP) — An aquanaut suffered a fatal heart seizure 610 feet deep Monday while checking air leaks in Sealab 3, and the Navy suspended the undersea living experiment.

Before proceeding further, the Navy said, it wants to try to find out why Barry L. Cannon, 33, electronics engineer and expert diver from Panama City, Fla., suffered the seizure. An autopsy was planned.

Sealab 3, the habitat in which five teams over two months are to live and work in 47-degree water under pressure 19 times normal, was ordered hauled to the surface so leaks can be plugged.

'Not Equipment'

"We have decided to suspend diving operations until we know what happened," a

Navy spokesman said. "We don't know what happened to Cannon but we are certain that it was not equipment failure because the equipment was checked carefully."

The other eight men in Sealab 3's first team of aquanauts were undergoing decompression, a six-day process, aboard the mother ship, the USS Elk River.

Monday was to have been the first of 12 days that the men would spend on the ocean bottom near San Clemente Island. The men had spent time inside two compression chambers aboard the Elk River in preparation for their descent to the box-like habitat.

France Quits West European Union

© New York Times Service

Paris — France announced Monday that she would indefinitely cease all participation in the activities of the Western European Union, the consultative body of Britain and the six Common Market countries.

The French accused the British of attempting to use the organization as a back door to force entry into the Common Market.

Market officials said the French action threatened to increase tensions within the community and to make fruitful negotiations on outstanding issues in Brussels more difficult.

Exception France, the Common Market members favor British membership.

The French announcement, less than a week before President Nixon's trip to Europe, came shortly after President de Gaulle had conferred with Premier Maurice Couve de Murville and Foreign Minister Michel Debre.

To Meet Tuesday

Representatives of the seven countries were scheduled to hold their regular meeting in London Tuesday to discuss arrangements for the WEU assembly of members of the seven parliaments that was to start in Paris Thursday. WEU was set up in 1954 as a substitute to the European Defense Community, which had been vetoed by France during the premiership of Pierre Mendes-France.

It involves defense commitments by the seven member countries which are more stringent than those of the Atlantic Alliance.

Its practical function has been that of a consultative organization, overshadowed by both NATO and the Common Market.

In recent years, WEU gained new political importance, at least in the eyes of the British, because in view of the French veto of British entry into the Common Market it constituted the only institutional forum in which Britain and the Common Market countries could meet.

The present dispute between France and the six other members stems from Britain's attempts to upgrade consultation between the WEU countries while France has been accusing London of trying to use WEU as a back door to gain entry into the Common Market.

Diplomatic observers here and in other European capitals Monday expressed surprise that France would permit a relatively minor disagreement to grow into a full-scale diplomatic crisis so soon before the scheduled visit by Nixon.

Soviet Union May Not Be Seeking Berlin Crisis Now

© New York Times Service

Moscow — East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht returned to Berlin Monday after a meeting with Soviet party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The report on the meeting failed to mention the forthcoming West German presidential election in Berlin. The scheduled meeting of the Bonn federal assembly has set off intense Soviet and East German protests in recent weeks.

According to Tass, the Soviet press agency, the two Communist leaders were in "complete unanimity" on all questions discussed at the meeting.

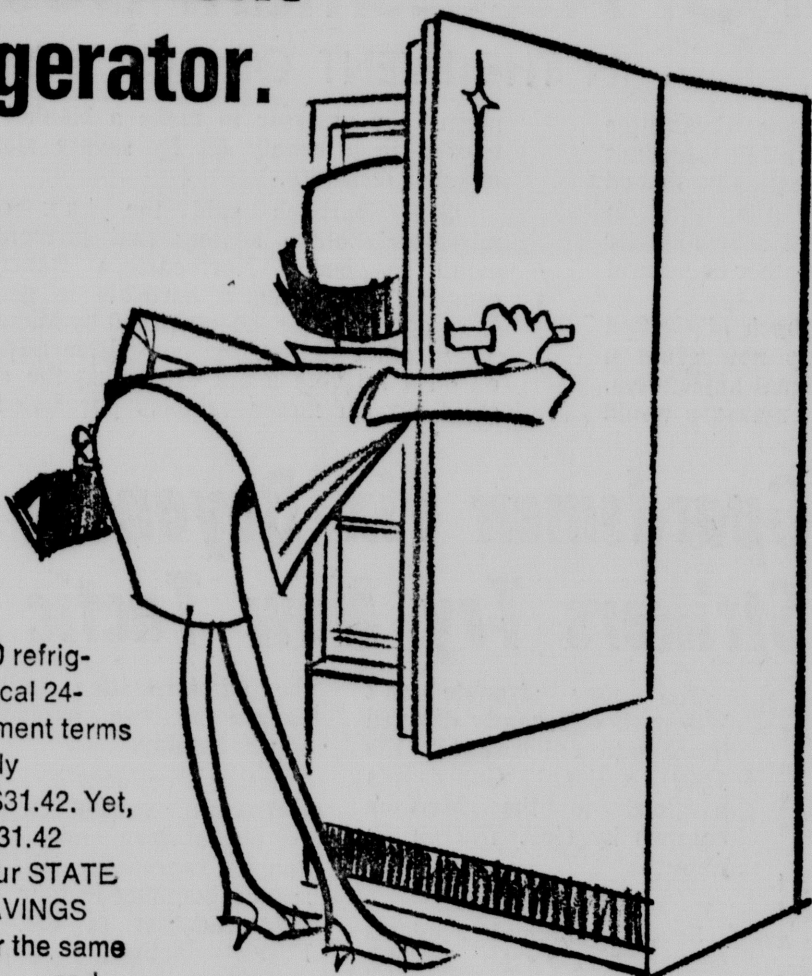

The lack of direct mention of the election — although it was presumably a major item of discussion — seems to reinforce the view of diplomatic observers here who believe that Moscow is not seeking a Berlin crisis at this time that would exacerbate relations with the United States and other Atlantic Alliance countries.

Over the weekend, Tass released the text of a note delivered to the West German government last Thursday.

The note protested against holding the election in West Berlin, but it ended on the conciliatory pledge that the Soviet Union was in favor of development of "normal, good neighborly relations among all European states, including relations between the Soviet Union and the Federal Republic of Germany."

Livestock Feed Supplies Diminishing Over State

Livestock feeders are finding hay and silage supplies diminishing rapidly with shortages in some areas, according to the State-Federal the state, the weekly crop-weather report revealed Monday.

"Statewide snows from Thursday to Saturday gave only small amounts of moisture in the Panhandle, but larger amounts elsewhere, and especially heavy snows southeast of a line from Furnas to Knox Counties," the report said.

"There was less drifting than with some snows and most of the fields in the eastern two-thirds of the state have a good cover of snow."

NU 4-H Group Attending Washington Short Course

Four University of Nebraska College of Agriculture and Home Economics students — with a total of some 45 years in 4-H work — are attending the Citizenship Short Course for Older Youth at the National 4-H Center, Washington, D.C., Feb. 16-22. They are:

Mary Ellen Griffith, 19, sophomore, daughter of W. A. Griffith of Stapleton.

Bernice Ludvik, 20, junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ludvik of Wahoo.

Cheri Anne Summerer, 19, sophomore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob P. Summerer of Norfolk.

Gene L. Wray, 21, junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wray of Scotia.

The Citizenship Short Course will be "a week of fun and learning," according to the National 4-H Club Foundation, which sponsors the course, and will include assemblies and discussions as well as field trips — one to Friendship House in Washington, D.C., to become acquainted firsthand with programs for the disadvantaged which will help them with 4-H leadership in Lincoln.

The 4-H youths will ask questions, make surveys and do homework.

The course consists of challenging and informative speakers, visits to historic memorials and shrines, and trips to Capitol Hill and the executive branches of the national government.

Other trips will include those to Washington National Cathedral, Arlington National Cemetery, Iwo Jima Marine Memorial, and to the Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials.

Judge Overrules Try To Suppress Part Of Evidence

Grand Island (UPI) — Hall County District Judge Donald Weaver Monday overruled a defense motion to suppress portions of the evidence in the first degree murder trial of Thomas F. Davis of Grand Island.

The action cleared the way for the start of the trial next Monday morning at 9:30.

Davis, 32, is charged in connection with the Aug. 14, 1968, death of his wife.

An innocent plea has been entered on his behalf by the court.

Westerners Expelled

Budapest (AP) — The Hungarian interior ministry disclosed that 51 Westerners were expelled from Hungary last year for "various crimes."

Scribner Plans 'Big Red' Event

Scribner (UPI) — The Scribner Jaycees next Sunday afternoon will sponsor an area "go big red" campaign at the Scribner school gym.

The "big red" in this case doesn't refer to the University of Nebraska football team. The Jaycees instead are offering free inoculations against the measles.

Glass Breaking Vandals Damage Oshkosh Home

Oshkosh — The home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Johnson was vandalized and an estimated $400 to $500 damage was reported to the Garden County sheriff.

A neighbor discovered the damage in the farm home located southwest of Oshkosh. The Johnsons were away on vacation in Arizona at the time of the incident.

The vandals apparently entered through an unlatched bathroom window, the sheriff said. Nothing was stolen but many objects had been broken or destroyed, he added.

Johnson has offered a $500 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of the vandals.

Mrs. Van Fleet Dies at Hastings

Hastings (AP) — Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Brand-Wilson chapel at Hastings for Mrs. Robert Van Fleet, 62, wife of longtime Hastings Fire Chief Robert Van Fleet.

Mrs. Van Fleet died at her home Sunday.

Besides her husband, who retired only recently, Mrs. Van Fleet is survived by two brothers and two sisters.

Two New Veeps

Omaha (UPI) — The Omaha National Bank has announced two new second vice presidents. They are Donald E. Benson, a native of Genoa, and Eunice B. Simonsen, a native of Gladstone.

Perkes Named To Succeed Wing In AP Position

New York (AP) — General Manager Wes Gallagher Monday announced the appointment of Dan Perkes as

GAVIN SCOTT
Transferred To Iowa

general editor of Associated Press Newsfeatures, succeeding M. J. (Joe) Wing, formerly of Lincoln, Neb., who retires at the end of July.

Perkes, 38, has been chief of bureau at Des Moines, with responsibility for Iowa and Nebraska, since March, 1967.

Gavin Scott, 43, correspondent at Omaha since September, 1967, was named to replace Perkes at Des Moines.

The appointments are effective April 1.

Perkes joined the Associated Press in 1957 at Lincoln and later worked in Des Moines. He was in charge of the AP office at Pierre, S.D., before becoming chief of bureau at Oklahoma City in March, 1964.

Officials Seek Amil Dobesh Death Cause

Mason City, Neb. (AP) — Tests were being conducted Monday to determine whether Amil Arthur Dobesh, 39, of Mason City died from a heart attack or from carbon monoxide poisoning while attempting to install chains on his stalled pickup truck Saturday.

Buffalo County Attorney Andrew McMullen said Dobesh was found dead underneath his truck between Summer and Miller. He said the truck had stalled and Dobesh left the engine running while he attempted to put chains on the rear wheels.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Ansley Methodist Church.

Dobesh, an auctioneer and farmer, is survived by his wife, three sons and a daughter, his mother and two brothers.

Rosenblatt Ends His Hospital Stay

Omaha (UPI) — A popular former mayor of Omaha, Johnny Rosenblatt, has returned to his home here from the University of Oklahoma Hospital where he has undergone more treatment for Parkinson's disease.

Rosenblatt has been undergoing treatment with an experimental drug, and family members said the treatments will continue here.

He will re-enter the Oklahoma City hospital the last of this month for an examination.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

It is good to remember that perspective is an all-important part of our national life. This calls into prominence the environment in which the people of the nation live — the influences that play upon them and their families.

For example, a new car may be an essential and productive investment for a traveling salesman but the furthest thing from the thoughts of an unskilled laborer. To a young mother, obstetrics is the most important part of medicine but to an elderly grandmother, geriatrics is in the spotlight.

And so it is with our national effort. A recent Harris survey asked the American people what they thought of landing a man on the moon. Somewhat surprisingly, 49 per cent of the respondents opposed such a landing while only 39 per cent favored it.

The results bear out the fact that one's opinions are directly related to his own circumstances. According to education, greatest opposition was shown by those with an 8th grade or less level of achievement. They were 19 per cent for and 65 per cent against the moon landing.

Those with a college education were 62 per cent in favor and 28 per cent opposed to the moon landing. Generally speaking, the higher educational group would be the higher income group.

Those opposed to the moon landing frequently cited reasons pertaining to economic problems here on earth. Some others viewed the moon effort as a waste of money and a few seemed to think that it was not mankind's God-given destiny to explore the heavenly bodies.

From the latter two reasons emerge a second consideration — that of effective communication. Obviously, many people do not understand the benefits that will ultimately accrue to the human race as a by-product of its exploration of space.

Already, business and industry have been blessed with an abundance of new processes as a result of our efforts in space. Through our space research, doors have been opened to make life more meaningful, rewarding and enjoyable.

In the future, this will be accelerated. The scientific and technological advances that come from our space program will greatly enhance life here on earth in the years ahead.

Additionally, many do not seem to understand or appreciate the fact that it is incumbent upon men to find out as much as possible about the environment in which they live. By doing so, they can better understand their past and plot their future. Too, they can deal all the better with the pitfalls of nature.

Thus, it seems we have two challenges in the matter of space, both of them related to but not an integral part of the program. One is to improve communication with all people in regard to the promise contained in our space efforts.

Secondly, we have to improve the standard of living of people to the point where space is at least relative to them. The impoverished family could not care less about space because that family cannot conceivably share in any of the benefits of the endeavor.

There is a level of living below which much of the world becomes irrelevant. The only thing relevant to the very poor is relief from the state of life in which they are caught.

If such families lack sufficient food for their children, it is ridiculous to expect them to favor a moon landing. These people have not even come to share in the progress of the last 100 years, much less that which is just around the corner.

Until life for the disadvantaged people begins to have some meaning, they will continue to be a brake upon the orderly progress of the rest of society.

BOB CONSIDINE

Old Glory At Last Gaining Prominence

NEW YORK — When General Eisenhower visited Seoul on his 1960 Asian trip, the South Korean government ordered that all who lined the streets to see and cheer him should be equipped with tiny American flags. A lady from the back country who had never seen our flag betook herself to the village store to purchase one, before setting off for Seoul.

"It's beautiful," the old lady said, examining her purchase and timidly waving it. "I like it very much. Do you have it in any other colors?"

It came in many colors, a long time ago.

All 13 colonies had flags of their own during the gestation period of the Revolutionary War. They featured rattlesnakes ("Don't Tread on Me"), pine trees and the like. On January 1, 1776, the infant Continental army besieging Boston rung up a new flag. It had 13 stripes, alternately red and white, and an interesting canton. The canton, the portion of the flag that now holds the 50 stars, on that day in 1776 was marked by, of all things, the Union Jack and the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew. That, apparently was to let the British know that the besiegers were still loyal to George III, but wanted a little less taxation and a lot more freedom.

It was not until nearly a year after the signing of the Declaration of Independence that the Continental Congress resolved, "that the flag of the United States shall be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white, with a union of thirteen stars of white on a blue field representing a new constellation."

Housecleaning Postponed

President Nixon is being cautious — overly cautious in the minds of many Republican leaders — in augmenting his campaign promise to throw the bureaucratic scoundrels out of Washington.

Just before the election, a top Nixon aide said that under a Republican administration, the housecleaning would extend to second and third level federal bureaucrats who had a hand in establishing policy. Republican faithful were to replace them.

This hasn't happened as expected and some Republican congressional leaders are furious. On top of that, the President further rocked the boat by his admirable decision to take politics out of the Post Office Department. Party chiefs were not consulted on that move.

There is merit to the idea that if a majority of the people thought Nixon would hold a tight rein on the federal bureaucracy — and counted that thought as one of the reasons they voted for him — then the President should proceed with dispatch to clear out as much of the dead weight as possible. But replacing hacks with other hacks, per custom, is not the answer.

Some observers see Nixon as so concerned about getting along with the Democrats, who still control Congress, that he is willing to hold off on the promised housecleaning.

Whatever the reason, Nixon is probably using more judgment than his critics in the Republican party and is doing the people a service at the expense of his reputation within the party.

Marriage Takes Maturity

Increased use of the Lancaster County Conciliation Court in divorce proceedings points up the fact that marriage may be common but is not simple. If more people would try to understand this, perhaps we would not have as many broken homes as we do.

Marriage is probably the most complex partnership into which any two people can enter, being both challenging and rewarding. But if you do not meet the challenge, you will not enjoy many of the rewards.

And what are some of the challenges? They are clearly shown in the list of matters that are discussed between parties in the Conciliation Court.

The court subjects covered include welfare of the children, forgetting the past, division of responsibilities, mutual interests, tolerance and privacy, mutual friends, control of temper, the importance of talking things over, personal appearance and money matters.

You could take any single one of these subjects and have the basis for a major discussion. When you put them all together, they clearly show that a successful marriage depends upon a great many things.

These matters are not going to just fall into place, but rather, require understanding, patience and desire on the part of both partners in the marriage. To "make a home" takes talent but those who expend the needed effort to do so are richly rewarded in terms of human happiness, love and peace of mind.

DREW PEARSON

Leniency For College Campus Trouble-Makers Unfair To Student Majority Seeking Education

CLARKSVILLE — During the past 12 months, this writer has visited approximately 50 college campuses, ranging from the University of Warsaw in communist Poland and the Sorbonne in Paris to the University of Montana, the University of Pennsylvania, the University of Florida, Washington State, MIT, Stout State College in Wisconsin and Austin Peay State College here in Tennessee. It has been a cross-section of colleges, large and small, and at all of the American institutions I have addressed student assemblies and conducted student forums.

From this experience I believe I can accurately report that American students generally are alert, dedicated and far ahead of previous generations in their desire to tackle the problems of the world. They are not interested primarily in becoming engineers, businessmen or insurance salesmen, as was my generation in college. The majority want to devote at least part of their lives to helping their fellow men. They are interested in the Peace Corps, VISTA or going into government.

In contrast there is a minority in many colleges, led by Negroes, which seems determined to disrupt education altogether. It has done so by reversing the American system of majority rule for a system of minority rule.

It has done this, moreover, by using a technique outlawed by American law and tradition — violence.

Minority rule by force and violence has almost paralyzed San Francisco State College, killed one college president, Dr. Courtney Smith of Swarthmore, and disrupted some of the most liberal institutions in America such as Brandeis, a Jewish university, the University of Chicago under liberal President Edward Levi, and the University of Wisconsin, long proud of its liberal LaFollette tradition. All have tried hard for several years to enlist more qualified Negro students, yet this is one of the demands of the Negro minority.

In each of the above institutions, there has been a small minority of students which has used violence to sabotage education for the majority. In Swarthmore 40 black students locked themselves into the admission office and disrupted education for a thousand others. At Brandeis the ratio was about the same. At Chicago, 400 students tried to force their demands on the 9,000-student university by occupying the administration building. At Columbia, a university where I once taught, about 400 students tied up an institution of 30,000 also by occupying the administration building where they rifled the private papers of President Grayson Kirk.

My conclusions from having visited many campuses is that it is time for university authorities to realize they must provide education for the majority, not submit to disruption by the minority. Otherwise education in their strike-torn colleges will gradually erode. The easiest way to prevent disruption is to get back to previous disciplinary rules and expel violators immediately.

Today, in contrast with the past, striking students have been mollified, given second and third chances and then allowed to remain in school. All of this puts a premium on violence.

Even the 400 who occupied Columbia's administration

Fence-Mending

Lincoln, Neb. Testimony at the national food investigation showed corporations are already in the agricultural field by setting the price at the market place. If the farmers refuse to do what is necessary and legal to solve this problem, why are they so concerned about corporations getting involved in the production end?

Many publications and so-called farm organizations tell the farmer he cannot price his product because he is a minority group and produces different products. There are many different fields in the medical profession, a lesser number of citizens than in agriculture. They seem to price their service and-or product whether it be the service of a brain surgeon or the braces on teeth by an orthodontist. A minor part of the teachers seem to have gotten their point across and the garbage haulers in New York were not a major part of the population.

Many farmers criticize various departments and branches of government and also various organizations for not solving their price problem. It's easy to find fault with the work or results of another, to let your own duties go, sit back and watch. Though your own fence may be broken, it's easy to see when the neighbor's needs paint. If corporations can get control of agriculture either through existing organizations, by encouraging distrust of the groups that are working for a solution, or by legislation that will make the farmer complacent — more power to them. The farmer is now in the upper 50's so it is not like taking candy from a baby.

Legislation on meat imports was to have solved the problem of the cattle industry and I recall "Teen-Age Eating Habits Blamed For Meat Imports" as past headlines. The facts are that meat was needed to fill the demand and possibly a couple per cent also imported to influence price. "The farmer was told this was (that other kind) of meat and wouldn't affect our trade." Now, I don't agree with some of the styles and activities of our teenagers. In fact, some clothing styles seem about as ridiculous as those in the flapper era of the 1920-1930's or zoot-suit period that followed and I would not be surprised if they started to see how many live goldfish they could swallow or some similar stupid caper, but I do believe they have more intelligence than to accept some reasons farmers accept for not pricing their products.

The farmers have the right to a return that would make it possible for survival of small towns, their schools, churches, etc., but I don't think they have the right to blame others for their problems.

LINCOLN CONSUMER

Board Decision

Alliance, Neb. I appreciated the privilege of testifying at the February 6 hearing in behalf of the Great Plains School District Organization Project Report.

If we had been informed that the State Board's decision would be based on numbers rather than the testimony presented, I could easily have increased the attendance with several hundred non-booming and disrupting citizens who are appalled at the decision.

I resent any board of education who renders the integrity of all school administrators. Fortunately other boards of education (including Class I) are very capable of making their own decisions.

Here is my background: I am a rancher's wife who resides on a Sandhills ranch, mother, grandmother, secretary of Class I school district for 25 years, served on county reorganization committee for seven years, Educational Service Unit No. 17 board president two years — re-elected for 1969 — an ex-rural school teacher and an active member of several local, state and national school associations.

I commend Mr. Otto and Mr. Landis for their recommendations regarding the decision.

MARCELLA KRAUSE

Church And State

Lincoln, Neb.

The perennial push for public money for private education is on.

If civil government diverts money raised by taxes to the support of the church or gives it presents of lands or grants it representation in the councils of government, the true relations of the church and state, of ecclesiastical and civil government have been perverted.

Principle, practice and law are all on the side of those who oppose the use of tax funds for sectarian purposes.

To avoid litigation, LB1094 should be amended to read:

"Nebraskans seeking a post-high-school education at public institutions, only, in Nebraska."

UNITED AMERICANS

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Eye doctors are so busy fitting glasses, I wonder if they ever figure on a glaucoma cure. Please let me know the prospects for a cure. — O. W.

I think you are being unfair. Every eye doctor would welcome a cure for glaucoma.

As it is, a great deal can be done to prevent glaucoma from causing blindness if it is treated early. Medication is sufficient in a great majority of cases; in some instances, surgery is employed to reduce pressure inside the eyeball. That is, after all, the basic problem in glaucoma. Too much pressure builds up inside the eyeball and, if not controlled, this pressure in time will destroy the optic nerve and cause blindness. And rebuilding or substituting a destroyed nerve is one of the things that has not yet been accomplished.

Thus finding a "cure" for blindness after it has already occurred from glaucoma is a formidable assignment.

But preventing it is quite another matter!

While you seem to be critical of "eye doctors" for not finding a cure, the eye specialists in turn are perpetually baffled as to why so many people wait so long before getting the treatment that is available for prevention.

The earliest stages of glaucoma are difficult for the patient to detect, but a quite simple test measuring the pressure of the eyeball will give early warning. Somewhat later the patient can have such symptoms as blurred vision (which cannot be corrected by glasses), difficulty in seeing from the outer edges of the eye, rainbow-colored halos appearing around lights at night.

The answer to glaucoma is to be on guard against it and get treatment promptly.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please advise on the use of indomethacin or probenecid in treatment of gouty arthritis. Is probenecid available the same as indomethacin? Recently my blood uric acid was 4.5. —W.L.

The two drugs are entirely different in use and purpose. Indomethacin is frequently effective in relief of pain from gouty or other forms of arthritis. Probenecid, on the other hand, is a "uricosuric agent," that is, it helps the body release uric acid, and in that way protects against further attacks of gout.

The former is used as required to stop pain; the latter is taken daily and continuously after an attack of gout if the uric acid level in the blood is too high. Your reading of 4.5 is normal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is alcohol harmful when used nightly to cleanse the face. I use it to guard against acne. Is there danger of pockmarks? —P.H.

No danger of pockmarks. Alcohol removes skin oils and tends to dry the skin, but if it works in your case and does not cause skin irritation or too much dryness, fine.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My grandchild, 10 months old, has been visiting with me. A retired pediatrician told me the baby's sclera was bluish which indicates a lack of calcium or maybe anemia. Is this true? The baby has a pediatrician at home, but perhaps they miss things. Still, I don't want to alarm my son unnecessarily. — Mrs. E.F.

The sclera (covering of the white part of the eyeball) can have a bluish cast because the membrane is thinner in infancy. There also is a condition called blue sclera due to heredity.

I would think twice about stirring up any alarm, as I feel sure that a pediatrician, regularly attending the baby, would spot any nutritional deficiency if it existed.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to repair a detached retina of long stand? — G.E.M.

Impossible to answer without knowing the particular circumstances. In general, I would say that repair of such a defect of "long standing" would be on the doubtful side, however.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible. (c) 1969, Publishers-Hall Synd.

Income Support, Public Jobs Urged To Eliminate Poverty

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

A noted economist contended here Monday that the United States should be operating five programs to wage the war on poverty "instead of some 5,000 ineffective projects."

Leon H. Keyserling of Washington, D.C., former chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers during the Truman administration, proposed adjustments in the farm program, Social Security and interest rates and creation of public jobs and income support.

These programs, the economist declared, operated "on a big enough scale to be effective" would eliminate most of the poor among the rural, aged, unemployed and unemployable people.

However, the "poverty wizards" have "confused democracy with mobocracy and participation with chaos. There still has to be leadership... Everyone can't make the poverty programs," he said.

Unequal Progress
Keyserling told a University of Nebraska audience that although the U.S. has made unequal economic and social progress during the last 40 years, the nation "is still tremendously behind where it needs to be now."

He said the country "has the means to make progress in our kind of society."

The U.S. has not moved forward faster, even though people of "such good will and committed to an experimental spirit have appropriated thousands of dollars," because the nation has not distinguished "between programs and policy."

Keyserling claimed that officials have "flubbed the whole problem of relations between urban and rural areas."

Head Start won't help here, he declared.

Strategic Program
A "sensible national farm policy would be a strategic program for the war on poverty," he said.

Pointing out that 25% of the poor people are aged, Keyserling said "all we need to do is put bigger checks in the envelopes from Social Security."

The increased cost, he said, could be borne by funds resulting from the elimination of "elicit tax reductions and tax loopholes."

Responding to a question later, the economist said that under his proposal concerns about increased Social Security payments going to persons who do not need it is "irrelevant." His idea is to "bring people up to certain standards," not to provide an across-the-board increase.

Specific Jobs
Keyserling also blasted the multitude of government training programs for unemployed and underemployed persons. Training programs only mean something if specific jobs are accomplished on the job, he said.

The economist's proposal is to put the unemployed persons to work on "unmet public needs," such as air and water pollution, building roads and schools.

He added that the job of private enterprise is to make a legitimate profit, not to function as a social service.

The job of picking up unemployed people that private enterprise does not is the government's, he said. A public employee "is of no less value than one more person in private enterprise" if there is a job that needs to be done.

And according to Keyserling, the U.S. is so underemployed in regard to public services, "there wouldn't be enough people if all of the available labor were used."

Income Support
For the unemployable, Keyserling proposed substituting the many welfare programs that overlap and leave wide gaps with one program of income support, which he emphasized is "not a negative income tax."

He claimed that the $8 million paid annually by the federal government for what he called inflationary interest rates would be twice the amount needed for paying the income support.

"Society is increasingly rich enough to guarantee every child a decent standard of living, not because his parents are worthy or unworthy, lazy or industrious, but by virtue of his being born," he said.

Keyserling discounted worries about taking away incentives from the poor with government programs. He observed that on his own income, he was taxed higher for "useful work" he does than for the income received on capital gains, calling for no work.

Lincoln Native Receives Navy Commendation

Navy Cmdr. Charles M. Woodworth, a Lincoln native, has received the Navy Commendation Medal during a ceremony at the Pentagon, where he is on duty as assistant for war gaming matters in the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations.

Cmdr. Woodworth received the award for his "outstanding and meritorious" service as strike warfare officer on the guided missile cruiser USS Little Rock, a unit of the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

The citation accompanying the medal noted Cmdr. Woodworth's contributions to the increased operational effectiveness of the Sixth Fleet.

A University of Nebraska graduate, Cmdr. Woodworth is the son of Mrs. Ruth Woodworth of 2916 So. 25th.

A. C. Anderson Assigned To U.S. Bond Office Here

A. Clifford Anderson, former Lincoln real estate and insurance businessman, has been assigned to the Lincoln branch office of the U.S. Savings Bonds Division of the Department of Treasury.

Since entering the division in 1965, Anderson has been stationed in Omaha.

Anderson's area will include southern Nebraska counties.

Suits Totaling $375,000 Filed In 1967 Car-Truck Accident

Companion suits totaling $374,780 were filed in Lancaster District Court Monday against Wesley and Lorene C. Johns and Jerry L. Wilbur in connection with a Feb. 12, 1967, car-truck accident at 48th and Superior.

The plaintiffs, Florence Rutt and Reinholdt Rutt, allege negligence on the part of the defendants when a truck owned by the Johns' and operated by Wilbur collided with a car driven by Rutt, in which his wife was a passenger.

They contend that the driver of the truck was

Nebraska Situation 'Didn't Warrant' Emergency

Federal officials explained Monday the reason they turned down the state's bid for snow disaster relief recently was that the situation in Nebraska was not sufficiently critical to warrant a disaster declaration.

The reasoning was set out in a letter to Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann from the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP).

The decision to reject Nebraska's application for a disaster designation for 42 snow-hit counties had been reported to the governor by telephone last week, but reasons for the decision were not reported at that time.

The letter from OEP Director G. A. Lincoln noted that a "major disaster" declaration should be a "last resort" measure "when a disaster emergency is beyond local and state capabilities and when other existing authorities are not adequate."

The letter added: "Our investigation in this case does not indicate that a critical situation of major disaster proportions exists. All major and most secondary roads are open. Most farms have at least one lane of road open. Many of those roads that are still blocked are sometimes closed under normal winter conditions. It is my understanding that weather conditions have improved recently and that the road conditions generally are also improving."

Gov. Tiemann said he regrets that OEP denied the request.

3 lessons ago he had 2 "left feet."

Look at him now, a leader of women. Not afraid to face the music...and dance. Who'd believe that just three short lessons ago he was a fall guy for his feet...ever stumbling all over his partner's feet.

How did he get his feet to behave? By bringing them into our Arthur Murray Dance Studio. One of our talented instructors taught his feet (and the rest of him) how to dance from the very first lesson. Soon he was stepping smartly through Fox Tots. Leading girls on in Tangos. And how they loved it!

So trade in your "two left feet" at our Arthur Murray Studio. In exchange we'll give you new friends...new confidence...a new outlook on life. In short, a vital, vibrant all new you.

3 Branch Banking Bills Survive Motions To Kill

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Three branch banking bills survived motions to kill in committee Monday, and were held for further consideration.

An effort to ax LB47, proposing statewide branch banking, fell one vote short during a brief executive session of the Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee.

The count was 4-0, with five votes required to either kill a bill or advance it to the floor.

Limited Proposals

Two other limited branch banking proposals, including LB45, which would restrict branching to Omaha and Lincoln, survived on 3-0 votes.

An effort to kill LB44, which would undertake a major restructuring of state banking laws, also failed on a 3-0 score.

The committee's inconclusive action followed a public hearing on LB45 which pitted four major downtown Omaha and Lincoln banks against the Nebraska Bankers Association, First National Bank of Omaha, City National Bank of Lincoln, and a host of suburban banks in or near the two cities.

Farm representatives from the National Farmers Organization, the Farmers Union and the Nebraska Stockgrowers Association, also opposed the bill.

Supporters

Support for the measure, introduced by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, was led by the Omaha National Bank, U.S. National Bank of Omaha, First National Bank of Lincoln, and the National Bank of Commerce of Lincoln.

The major banks told the committee that they cannot fully meet the specialized and large credit needs of big new industrial and agricultural customers without branching privileges.

Most of the large new industrial customers are locating on the periphery of the city, far from downtown bank locations, FNB President Burnham Yates of Lincoln noted.

Advantages Seen

Major bank spokesmen also pointed to the advantages which savings and loan companies now enjoy under statutory authority to establish branches at will.

NBA President Henry Gramann of Adams said the limited branching proposal is "a sham," designed to hide the long-range objective of unlimited branch banking.

"Power is the ultimate prize," he said, "the power to control money and politics... a lust for power."

Suburban bankers in Lincoln and Omaha said LB45 would permit major downtown banks to extend monopoly control for the benefit of a limited number of stockholders.

'Downpayment'

"This bill is just the downpayment," Omaha banker Perry Francis said. Future installments would spread branch banking statewide, he warned.

Carpenter said the state already has "branch banking by subterfuge," in the form of chain banking undertaken through multi-bank operations.

But under Nebraska' unit banking system, each bank must be separately incorporated and capitalized.

Thirty-seven states now permit some form of branch banking.

Education Committee

The Unicameral's Education Committee decided Monday to take a closer look before acting on a bill to require the State Game Commission to pay tuition for students whose parents live on tax-exempt game commission owned or controlled lands.

The bill, LB566, sponsored by Speaker of the Legislature Jerome Warner of Waverly, would affect some 43 Nebraska children.

The main reason for the committee wanting to give further study to the bill, however, is not because of Warner's bill but because of a pending companion measure that would require all state agencies to pay the tuition of students on state owned land.

In testimony before the committee, Frank Foote of the State Game Commission, estimated that between 600 and 800 Nebraska school children would be affected if all state agencies were required to pay the tuition of children living on their lands.

Under present law, children living on tax-exempt state owned lands can go to school free. However, there have been instances where a district has refused to accept these students because the cost was prohibitive.

Judiciary Committee

A bill making it a misdemeanor to leave a child aged six or under unattended in motor vehicle for more than 15 minutes received 5-0 approval by the Judiciary Committee Monday.

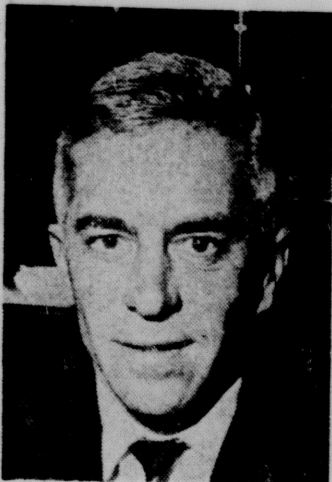

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Donald Elrod of Grand Island, told the committee the bill "probably would be enforced only in extreme cases."

But he said it would fill a gap "not now included in child abuse laws."

Elrod said the bill, LB299, would, hopefully, cut down on the "many times" children are left in cars for a great length of time "in the heat or summer and cold of winter."

The committee also sent to the floor LB258, requiring that before any written statement made by a person can be used against that person in a lawsuit a copy of it must be given to him.

The bill's sponsor, State Sen. Henry F. Pedersen of Omaha, said it "deals in fairness." He said it is "only fair" that a statement made by a person be given to the person to examine if it is to be introduced in court against the person.

Schuyler Added To Cities Wanting Game Unit Office

Schuyler, too, wants to become the location for the State Game Commission headquarters.

Sen. W. H. Hasebrook of West Point Monday reported receipt of a telephone call from Schuyler Chamber of Commerce interests, reporting the community's interest in landing the Game Commission's headquarters should they be moved out of Lincoln.

It all started when Sen. Rudolf Kokes introduced a bill in the Legislature authorizing transfer of the headquarters to the senator's home town of Ord. Several other cities have since expressed a wish to become the headquarter's location.

Solons Advance Airport Levy Bill

A bill authorizing Nebraska cities other than Omaha and Lincoln to increase from one mill to two mills their mill levies for airport purposes was given 38-0 first round approval in the State Legislature Monday.

It was one of 10 measures advanced from general file Chappell sponsored the airport measure, LB358.

Present law sets a one mill limit on airport levies. LB358 would permit an increase to two mills by vote of the city council or vote of the electorate, and would prescribe that the higher levy remain in effect while airport bonds remain unpaid.

Rabbi To Moscow

Jerusalem (UPI) — The chief rabbi of Jerusalem, Isaac Nissim, announced he will fly to Moscow to attend celebrations there in observance of the 75th birthday of the chief rabbi of Russia, Yehuda Leib Levin.

State Senators React To Criticism Of Bills

Nebraska's Legislature reacted in two different fashions Monday to criticism it has been receiving for the record number of bills introduced at the current 80th session.

One attack on the problem came in the form of another new bill — a constitutional amendment proposal under which no senator could introduce more than 20 bills at any session.

Sen. William Wylie of Elgin sponsored the bill — the 1,200th measure of the session. The proposed amendment would be voted upon in November of next year and would not become binding until the 1971 legislative session.

Still another approach was taken by Sen. Terry Carpenter, currently the bill introducing champion as chief sponsor of 190 measures.

Carpenter moved unsuccessfully for the automatic killing of any bills on general file or in committee at the time the budget bills are advanced from general file.

The Scottsbluff lawmaker said he had been advised by Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, Budget Committee chairman, that the budget bills will probably be sent to the floor in May.

Carpenter said he resents being criticized for the number of bills he has sponsored and wants to go on record with a plan which "will accelerate the consideration of bills."

"Everyone points their finger at Sen. Carpenter, at least outside this body," he complained.

Carpenter said 95% of his bills are good bills and ought to be passed. But he said he also is concerned about a session running unduly long, and if his own bills still repose in committee or on general file when the budget bill moves ahead, "I want them all killed."

Several senators arose to protest the Carpenter motion and it was defeated on a record vote of 17 to 30.

Sen. Clifton Batchelder of Omaha, who had favored the motion, urged legislative leaders to do what they can to expedite the session work. He wondered if some kind of a screening committee could not be established to screen out duplications or trivial bills.

Nebraska, Missouri Sign Tax Pact

State Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil announced Monday the signing of a mutual cooperative agreement between Nebraska and Missouri for the collection of sales and use taxes beginning April 1.

McNeil said a similar agreement became effective last July 1 between Kansas and Nebraska.

"Similar reciprocal agreements are contemplated with other states bordering Nebraska as quickly as compatible laws and administrative procedures can be developed," he said.

McNeil estimated the reciprocal agreement with Missouri will bring in an additional $200,000 annually to Nebraska.

Additionally, he said, such agreements are an aid to retailers in determining which states are entitled to sales or use tax, eliminates the possibility of double taxation to customers and reduces the expense of tax liability enforcement.

During the first six months of the reciprocal agreement with Kansas, the tax commissioner said Nebraska collected $75,185 while Kansas collected $40,250.

MISS SHARON SOWDER

The engagement of Miss Sharon Sowder, daughter of Mrs. Alma Sowder of Columbus, and Michael R. Sowder of Salinas, Calif., to Mark Hyffler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland E. Hyffler of Columbus, is announced this morning by the bride-elect's mother.

Miss Sowder is a senior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, and of Omicron NU and Phi Upsilon, both home economics honoraries.

Mr. Hyffler is an agriculture major at the University of Nebraska where he also is a senior. His fraternity is Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Even The Weather Has Its Bright Side

Contrary to the contentions of drifted-in motorists, there are a few good things that you can say about this kind of weather. For one, it certainly does not fool around — when it brings snow, it doesn't bother with six or seven inches. For another, you can be sure about some of the results — either your street was cleared by snow scrapers (but the drifts left in your drive made it impossible to get onto the street) or the street crews were busy elsewhere, and even if your drive were shoveled clean, and you did make it to the street, navigation was impossible.

But look on the bright side . . . the sun IS showing its face again, you know. And that is one thing that some new Wedgewood Manor residents we know of are very happy about.

The sunshine-lovers, who were beginning to think that Nebraska was devoid of that particular joy, are Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Kallmeyer and their youngsters — Jim, 17, and Anne Marie, 13. They moved into their new home at 310 Lakewood in January, and since that time the lack of cooperation on the part of Old Sol almost made them sorry to have departed from Harvey's Lake, Pa.

Fortunately for young boys who have winter birthdays, there is no lack of fun things to do, indoors, to make the occasion festive. One of the favorite winter birthday celebrations for the snips 'n' snails set is a party which includes an afternoon of bowling.

Such was the activity which Gary Mulder, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Mulder, chose to help observe his ninth birthday on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 15. Guests at the young Eastridge resident's celebration were Glen Knodle, Mark Holdt, Chris Hamilton, Paul Gilbert, and Tom Mathes.

Our Meadow Lane news this morning is also of the birthday-celebration variety, but this involves two members of the sugar 'n' spice set. The first is Karen Timberlake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Timberlake, who on Friday evening observed her 8th birthday with dinner out and a show. The family celebration included Mr. and Mrs. Timberlake, and Karen's brothers and sister, John, Gary, and Diane.

Today happens to be the birthday of Karen's sister, Diane, who chose to celebrate at an afterschool party with her classmates.

TALK

During those moments we have on hand right now we'll take up the matter of skiing — the synthetic kind. We have in mind the ski party, replete with ski togs, which has been planned by the Revelers Club, and which is to be a dinner dance at Hillcrest Country Club next Saturday evening.

"Mountain Revelry" is the theme of the party and the committee in charge is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Don Patoka, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Andy Andros, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brungard, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Avery Forke, Dr. and Mrs. Louis Gogola, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hamilton and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Jones.

Of interest to Chi Omega circles will be news of the arrival of Matthew Blaine Anderson who arrived at Lincoln General Hospital on Monday, Feb. 17. The young man is the son of Lt. and Mrs. Mark F. Anderson, and his mother is the former Susan Leonard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Leonard of Auburn, and Chi Omega at Nebraska. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Philip Anderson of Crete.

North Salem, N.Y. — When Russell K. Jones kneads the dough for his daily bread, he can view the other side of the Hudson River, Bear Mountain, Mount Beacon and, on a clear day, the top of the Catskills, 65 miles away. Jones, 72-years old, is a redoubtable Civil War buff, ex-sailor, former lieutenant-colonel and one time advertising executive who conducts a highly successful series of cooking classes in a bright, comfortable little home high on the side of a hill here.

"I hope you don't think this is my major form of livelihood," he said while awaiting the moment to flame a brace of birds in a kettle. "I figured it up last year and decided I was working for about 65 cents an hour. I'm thinking of raising my prices."

"I've been cooking since I was 9 years old, when I spoiled a batch of baking powder biscuits, but these classes started as a lark. That was in 1964 when a group of friends asked me to teach them how to make bread and sauces. That was by invitation, no charge. From then on people I scarcely knew phoned, stopped me on the street or at cocktail parties, asking me to start a class and include them."

He described his current pupils as "women who are mostly well-to-do."

His charges also include six 15-year-old girls, "young ladies, extraordinarily intelligent," from nearby Ripowam School.

Jones, the father of two grown children, is married to the former Alice Anne Taylor, senior vice president of the Fiduciary Trust Co. on Wall Street.

Does she cook?

"No," he said. "She never did, except she makes superb omelets. And if she started, she'd be one hell of a good cook."

The Joneses moved to "the most beautiful view in Westchester" in 1955.

At the time he was a vice president of the Cunningham and Walsh Advertising Agency, and both he and his wife commuted to Manhattan. Jones retired in 1962.

Jones is the author (with C. McKim Norton, "a great blue-water sailor") of a best-selling book called "The New Cruising Cookbook," first published in 1949 and now revised.

Here is one of the Jones recipes:

ART—the tragedy of Maurer

BY HILTON KRAMER
(c) New York Times Service

New York — Among the many tragic lives which the history of art in this century contains, one of the most painful to contemplate is that of the American painter Alfred H. Maurer. Born in New York in 1868, Maurer hanged himself in his father's house here on Aug. 4, 1932. The date, as Maurer's biographer Elizabeth McCausland has pointed out, was a significant one for this tortured artist. It marked "the eighteenth anniversary of the outbreak of the war which drove him home from Paris in 1914."

More than half a century after the end of that war, we are still a long way from fully appreciating its effect on the generation of artists who came of age in the relatively tranquil decade preceding Sarajevo. In Maurer's case, the disruption of the war was doubly cruel. Not only was he forced to leave the beloved Parisian milieu where, after his early success as a Whistlerian realist, he had recast his talents — and indeed his life — in a more avant-garde direction, but his forced return to New York meant a resumption of the bitter family struggle in which Maurer and his father remained locked until the end of their lives.

It was a struggle on the order of one of those late plays by Eugene O'Neill in which the classic bonds of filial attachment — love and dependency, hatred and resentment, the desire for freedom and the impossibility of achieving it — are carried to every extreme of exacerbation and despair. Most of the American artists who turned to modernism in the early years of the century encountered harsh criticism and firm rejection.

In the attitude of Maurer's tyrannical and overbearing father, himself a highly successful commercial artist and genre painter, the prevailing Philistinism of the period took the form of the most sweeping and unforgiving parental disapproval and condescension. What most of his contemporaries experienced as a general conflict of taste and allegiance — between the claims of tradition and respectability on the one hand and those of modernist art on the other — Maurer experienced as a profound family crisis.

There can be no doubt that this crisis broke his spirit. Certainly as a man he never recovered from it, nor had he the kind of strength required to release himself from the disapproving parental gaze. Maurer lived out his life, from 1914 onward, in his father's house, and when his father finally died in 1932, in his 100th year, Maurer followed him to the grave three weeks later.

The exhibition of Maurer's paintings which has now come to the Bertha Schaefer Gallery here is by no means a complete retrospective, but the 38 works included in this survey are certainly sufficient to remind us both of the artist's undeniable quality and of his uncertain hold on that quality. The pictures range in date from 1903 to 1931. There are several excellent samples of Maurer's fauvist manner "Landscape With Red Tree" (c. 1907-1908) and "Still Life With Bowl" (c. 1908), among others; the very bold and interesting "Abstraction" (c. 1919), which indicated a cubist-derived turn toward nonobjective art; and a number of fine cubist still lifes of a more representational character from the late twenties and early thirties.

It is pictures of this quality that show us Maurer at his best. They are very Parisian in character, displaying a real authority and understanding in the way their various elements are composed. Fauvism, especially in the transcendent example of Matisse, certainly altered forever Maurer's understanding of color, and showed him to have a direct and natural faculty for its expressive use.

Plans For International University Choral Festival Have Been Completed

BY RAYMOND ERICSON
(c) New York Times Service
New York. — Rumania had dropped out at the last moment, and as of 9:30 a.m. last Monday morning, nothing had been found to take its place — the "nothing" being a needed chorus from a women's college. But James R. Bjorge, who volunteered this information, was also able to report that Ghana, which had been counted on but was uncertain, was officially "definite" as of 12:30 p.m. the previous Friday.

All this had to do with the second International University Choral Festival, which is scheduled for Philharmonic Hall from March 23 to 30. Bjorge, associate director of education at Lincoln Center, masterminded the first festival 3½ years ago.

He believes that the 16 university choruses scheduled to appear this time are better in quality than those of the first festival. He has also seen to it that the repertory presented by each group is superior. At the festival, four choruses will share programs on four evenings; then the 16, representing some 650 people, will unite for a program to be conducted by Robert Shaw, with an orchestra from the Juilliard School. The program will include Haydn's "Lord Nelson" Mass, Verdi's "Te Deum" and Stravinsky's "Symphony of Psalms."

Each chorus will tour high schools and colleges in the eastern states separately for a week, then appear together for two days in Washington, D.C., before coming to New York.

The choruses will represent a wider segment of the world than did the first festival. In fact, all the inhabited continents will have representatives here. They are the Coro Universitario

Filosofia y Letras from Buenos Aires; Australian Universities Festival Choir of Melbourne; Akademie-Kammerchor Graz, Austria; Ars Nova Coral Da Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais, Belo Horizonte, Brazil; Coro de la Universidad Technica Del Estado, Santiago, Chile; Lucnica Choir, Bratislava, Czechoslovakia; Yliopilaskunnan Laulajat (Helsinki University Chorus); Collegium Cantorum, Bonn, Germany; University of Ghana Chorus; Keio University Wagner Society Male Choir, Tokyo; Yonsei University Choir, Seoul, Korea; University of the Philippines Madrigal Singers, Quezon City; Grand Choeur de l'Universite; de Lausanne, Switzerland;

Morehouse College Glee Club, Atlanta; Occidental College Glee Clubs, Los Angeles; and another American chorus to be announced.

Reduction Of Legislature's Size Proposed

Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha Monday proposed a constitutional amendment which would reduce the maximum size of the Legislature to 25 members, and prohibit outside employment.

His proposal, contained in LB1215, would also forbid any person over 66 from seeking election as a state senator.

Proud's bill provides that salaries and expenses for senators would be established by the Legislature, and that they engage in no outside business or employment. The 49 senators now receive $400 a month.

Among other new bills presented to the Unicameral were measures establishing a review division of district courts and refining provisions of the 1967 law providing state aid to public schools.

The court bill, LB1216, authored by Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, provides for a three-judge panel to review cases in which persons are sentenced to more than a year's imprisonment in the Penal Complex or State Reformatory for Women.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly proposed LB1211, which refines his school aid legislation, including removal of the 8% per pupil spending limit as applied to foundation aid only.

LB1211 also removes federal aid for impacted areas as a limiting factor in determining school aid.

Sen. William Skarda of Omaha proposed increases for resident hunting, fishing and trapping permits.

Hunting fees would jump to $4.50 effective Jan. 1, 1970. Fishing fees would be $4, and combination permits would cost $8.

Vehicle Inspections Blocked

By Associated Press

Nebraska's Legislature Monday blocked—at least temporarily—the state's mandatory motor vehicle inspection program.

A resolution approved 39-1 rejected the rules and regulations adopted by the State Motor Vehicles Department for the safety inspections which were to become mandatory on March 1. The amended resolution suspends the effective date of the entire program until such time as new rules and regulations are approved by the Legislature.

The action came in the form of amendments to a resolution introduced last week by Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway.

The original resolution proposed simply to reject rule No. 9, which sets safety standards for windshield glass and other glass.

Said Too Severe

Sen. Waldron said he has since discovered that Rule No. 11, dealing with wheel alignment, also is too severe and needs changing.

Amendments which rewrote the form of Waldron's resolution came from Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff and Harold Simpson of Lincoln.

The effect of Monday's voting is to require the Motor Vehicles Department to rewrite its rules into a form which the Legislature can accept.

The Unicameral's Public Works Committee is to meet with the Motor Vehicles Department in this connection.

In addition, the Legislature will determine in Washington just what penalties the state might be subjected to by abandoning the motor vehicle safety inspection program altogether.

Labor Bill Action Delayed

The unicameral delayed for another day Monday consideration of a bill to set up collective bargaining procedures for public employees after an amendment to the bill was submitted with the support of the bill's sponsor.

The amendment, submitted by Omaha Sen. Henry F. Pedersen, would give the Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations jurisdiction over all disputes between public employees and employers in the state.

The court currently has jurisdiction over public utilities only. The bill, as originally written, would establish a public employment relations board to supervise disputes.

Pedersen's amendment retains the clause giving public employees the right to join unions, a right which Pedersen said has been established in the courts.

State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, who is sponsor of the original bill, rose to support Pedersen's amendment. The amendment was laid over until Tuesday for consideration to give lawmakers a chance to study it.

Adopted In 1967

The mandatory inspection bill was adopted by the 1967 Legislature under an impression that the state would lose 10% of its highway aid if it did not undertake the program.

Several senators arose to say they understand states have not been penalized for refusing to adopt the plan, and several states are presently considering abandonment of the program.

Some senators voiced concern that garages and filling stations in Nebraska, which have spent several hundred dollars apiece for inspection equipment, will be left "holding the bag" if the program is dropped.

Poll: Space Funds Cut No. 1 Choice

By LOUIS HARRIS

When presented with a list of current federal programs, the first the American people would choose to cut back would be our expenditures in space. The programs the public most wants to keep or increase are (1) anti-crime and law enforcement, (2) aid to education and (3) the anti-poverty program.

While only 4% of the public singled out "financing the war in Vietnam" on their "must" expenditure list, over four times that many, 18%, expressed the view that Vietnam spending should be the first to be cut.

The results of this latest Harris Survey, conducted January 21-23, among a carefully drawn cross section of 1,544 households across the nation, indicate fairly widespread disenchantment with current federal government commitments in space and Vietnam.

The cross section was asked: "I want to give you this list of government programs. Which one of these government programs would you most like to see kept or even increased, if you had to choose one?"

LOUIS HARRIS

receive overwhelming support from Negroes and poor whites, but meet with solid opposition from middle-income whites in cities and small towns. Aid to the cities, despite the stated desperate plight of urban areas, ends up as no better than a stand-off.

The anti-poverty program is favorably viewed by this measure, receiving top priority support from 40% of the blacks, as well as 23% of young people. By the same token, it is singled out as the place where first cuts should be made by suburban residents. Medicaid meets with most opposition in rural areas in the Midwest, but receives considerable support among people with incomes under $5,000 and those over 50 years of age.

ETV Given OK To Tape Session

It was not unanimous, but the Legislature Monday voted to allow the Nebraska educational television network to tape Wednesday and Thursday sessions of the Legislature for purposes of Sunday broadcast on the ETV network.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, who made the motion, said the Ford Foundation is underwriting some of the cost.

The motion was approved 36-2 with Sens. Clifton Batchelder of Omaha and Herb Nore of Genoa dissenting.

PRIORITIES FOR FEDERAL PROGRAMS
	Keep or Increase	Cut First
Anti-crime, law enforcement programs	22%	1%
Aid to education	19%	1%
Anti-poverty program	17%	6%
Medicaid	9%	2%
Anti-air and anti-water pollution programs	8%	2%
Welfare and relief	8%	1%
Aid to cities	5%	5%
Subsidies to farmers	4%	7%
Financing Vietnam war	4%	18%
Build more highways	2%	9%
Space program	2%	39%

Two other government programs to receive a negative balance from the public are the highway building effort and payments of subsidies to farmers. Both have long exhibited strong staying power in congressional appropriations measures. Welfare and relief programs are controversial and slightly on the negative side of the ledger. They

Horse Racing

Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln presented his promised horse racing bill, which boosts track receipts from the pari-mutuel pot from 14% to 15%, in order to provide incentive payments to tracks and to Nebraska owners.

Medal of Honor winners from Nebraska would be admitted to Nebraska's Hall of Fame under LB1212, signed by Sens. Eugene Mahoney and Bill Bloom, both of Omaha.

Sen. Ramey Whitney

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Husband Likes To Walk Through Town In Uncle Sam Costume

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. — "My husband Sam used to act normal, but something has happened. He's always liked being called Uncle Sam and since retiring has become a rightwinger and super-patriot. Two months ago he bought a red-white-and-blue Uncle Sam costume complete with top hat, and dons the outfit every afternoon for a stroll downtown. People stare at him like he's crazy. I've talked to our doctor but he doesn't think it's anything serious. When I talk to Sam he just says he's old enough to do as he pleases. What can I do to stop him? It's so embarrassing."

A. — He sounds stubborn, so you'll probably have to put up with his eccentric behavior until he tires of the role. A small per cent of older people develop eccentric behavior, and there's not much friends or family can do so long as they're within the law and don't prove a public nuisance. In England eccentric behavior is encouraged, and you see a lot of odd balls walking the streets enjoying friendly glances from passersby. Take pleasure in the fact that there are worse things a husband can do than parade around in an Uncle Sam suit.

Q. — "Dad will be 80 next month. You'd think he'd brag about it but he's given us strict orders not to mention his age or plan any festivities. He says that when folks know you're over the hill. He still runs a small machine shop and most of his friends are mother's age — she's only 63. But shouldn't he be proud of his years?"

A. — Yes — most folks reaching fourscore don't mind trumpeting the fact. But since your dad travels in a younger group he's probably aware that folks may sometimes get overly-solicitous or maybe a bit stand-offish when they discover someone in their circle is much older than they are. Pride in age makes good geriatric sense. But at 80 a man's wishes should be respected whether they make geriatric sense or not.

Q. — "You said in a column that older people are headed toward political power: But I sort of doubt it. I'm 68 myself and few of the seniors I know give two hoots about politics and civic affairs. Last week I phoned three dozen old-timers urging them to attend a rally for improved housing in our town and only six showed up."

A. — Many older people are apathetic. But elders represent 10% of the population and they'll awaken eventually to the significance of geriatric power. Let's hope the leader who awakens them uses this power in a worthwhile, constructive manner.

California Lacks 'Garbage' Space

San Francisco (AP) — California is running out of places to put its huge garbage production, warns the state health director, Dr. Louis F. Saylor.

Saylor's concern is over an annual mass of solid waste "enough to build a wall 30 feet wide, 100 feet high and which would stretch 800 miles from Oregon to Mexico."

Hospital Office Space Plan Okayed By City

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln City Council Monday approved an ordinance amendment permitting hospitals to provide office space for doctors and dentists who are on the hospital staff.

The amendment, approved on a 6-1 vote, permits hospitals to obtain a special permit to provide the non-accessory use after assuring the city that full payment of all property taxes will be made.

The council had deferred action on the proposed ordinance amendment for nearly a month until clarification was received from the city law department that the city would be protected from not getting tax money should the offices be declared tax exempt.

The ordinance states: Assurance of full payment of all property taxes for such use shall be in such form as approved by the city, shall include building and land and parking area required, and shall also include assurance of payment which may be imposed in lieu of taxes, if such space should be declared to be tax exempt.

Housing Units
The council also deferred action on an resolution approving the housing authority's acquisition and method of purchase of the air base housing units from the federal government.

The decision to delay action for a week resulted from a new resolution being introduced that is more specific than the original.

Councilmen Lloyd Hinkley and Tom Allman said they wanted time to study the new resolution.

The housing authority is proposing to purchase the housing by bonds through a local insurance industry.

Must Be Protected

Kenneth King, chairman of the housing authority, said the company financing the acquisition must be protected in terms of its funds.

The new resolution, requested by the financiers, details the steps to which the city will agree regarding the development of the air base land should the authority purchase the housing units.

The resolution states the city, upon the purchase by the housing authority, will take immediate steps to:
—Annex the entire area.
—Approve a subdivision plat of the area.

—Accept as is all city utilities and provide for maintenance of the utilities at city expense until the housing authority's bonds are fully paid.
—Apply Lincoln building codes to all new construction.

—Zone for commercial use at least 10 acres of the 20-acre tract north of the area and now under lease by the housing authority.

—Agree that the present city administration will cooperate and encourage future administrations to cooperate in seeing that the area has adequate city schools, bus services, garbage collection facilities and assure that no objectionable construction or usage of the area will be permitted on adjoining lands.

Councilman Ervin Peterson, who said he favors the resolution, indicated that purchase of the housing units is a necessity.

Support Bill

In other action, Gary Hill, chairman of the Human Rights Commission, told council members they should actively support the proposal state open housing bill.

He said the support should come through adopting a council resolution, having Ralph Nelson, the city's lobbyist, try to secure passage, having council members visit with legislators, and initiating steps to secure a local open housing ordinance if the state bill passed.

Hill said he has found the general attitude of the city to be: "Let's make Lincoln a nice city but not too nice (completely open housing in all neighborhoods, total job upgrading based solely on qualifications, full acceptance of professional people, and open membership in all private and fraternal organizations) or too many of them will move here."

Gas War

During the meeting, Councilman Bill Davidson lashed out against the current gas war in the city.

He said something ought to be done about the discount gas stations that come into the city and start gas wars by offering gas without any of the services other stations provide.

His response came during a discussion on an ordinance regulating "going-out-of-business" sales.

The council approved the ordinance after amending it so that a business must be in operation for three months before it can have such a sale. The original wording of the ordinance called for a six-month period.

Nelson said the city will have to prove fraud in prosecuting cases arising from the ordinance.

Ordinances, Third Reading

—Approved regulation of moving houses, collecting fees, issuing permits and licensing housemovers.

—Approved removal of a building from real estate on which delinquent taxes are unpaid.

—Approved vacating street and alleys in vicinity of 63rd and X St.

—Approved application of Daniel Roland for zone change from F-1 Restricted Commercial to C-1 Local Business on south side of O St., approximately halfway between 33rd and 34th Sts.

—Deferred application of Lewis Oil Co. for change of zone from H-2 Highway to K Light Commercial at Cornsucker Highway and Yolande St. until action is taken by Board of Zoning Appeals.

Special Permit
—Deferred on special permit to Empire Construction Co. to construct trailer court.

—Deferred on special permit to Empire Construction Co. to permit development of community unit plan.

—Deferred on preliminary plat of Northside Village, 1st addition, submitted by Karl Wirt.

—Approved permit to John Hoppe for development of a community unit plan in vicinity of So. 48th St., Nebraska Highway 2, and So. 48th St.

—Approved preliminary plat of Briarhurst Addition, submitted by John Hoppe and Hubert Hall.

Resolutions
—Approved providing that registered warrants of the city shall draw interest at the rate of 4 1/2% per year.

Ordinances, Second Reading
—Advanced plat of Cotter's replat at 48th and Vine Sts.

Lawrence Looby Killed In Action South Of Da Nang

Marine Lance Cpl. Lawrence C. Looby, 21, of 7841 A, was killed in action 15 miles south of Da Nang, Vietnam, Feb. 14, the Defense Department said Monday.

A 1966 graduate of Lincoln High School, Lance Cpl. Looby was a former employee of the Lincoln Journal-Star and had worked for two Lincoln car salesmen.

He entered the U.S. Marine Corps in 1967 and left for Vietnam last August.

Survivors include his wife, Judy of Lincoln; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Looby of Lincoln; brother, William, at home; sister, Mrs. Ella Bryan, and grandmother, Mrs. Orville Good of Glenwood, Iowa.

Sorensen Says He Won't Assist Ted Before 1972

Miami (AP) — Theodore Sorensen, aide to President John F. Kennedy and campaign adviser for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, said he will "not be doing anything for Sen. Edward Kennedy before 1972, if then."

In a speech at Temple Judds, Sorensen said, "The cost of political campaigns in the United States today has risen beyond all reasonable limits."

He said tax deductions should be allowed for small campaign contributions and public funds should be allocated for general voter information booklets.

Another way to cut campaign costs would be to compel television stations to devote free air time to candidates, Sorensen said.

Burlington Railroad Protests Water District Assessment

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad Co. protested its $5,965.52 water district assessment in the Havelock area at Monday's Board of Equalization meeting.

The City Council, sitting as the Board of Equalization, heard testimony from railroad officials that the company was not benefited by a 12-inch water main installed in the district.

The board made no decision on the Burlington's request to lower the assessment.

The board, which is also scheduled to hear a protest from the railroad on a paving district in the area, decided to make a decision after hearing both complaints.

No hearing date was set on the paving district assessment complaint.

Richard Knutson, an attorney representing the railroad, testified that the Police Searching For Burglar With A 'Sweet Tooth'

Lincoln police said Monday they were searching for a burglar with a "sweet tooth" who broke into Art's Snackbar at 134 So. 13th and removed 45 rolls of nickel candies.

The candies were the only articles taken, a police spokesman said.

The value of the candy taken in the break-in was placed at $2.25.

Turner Will Be New FHA Head

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon shortly will name Francis C. Turner, the director of the Bureau of Public Roads, as the new head of the Federal Highway Administration, it was learned Monday.

Ralph R. Bartelsmeyer, a former Illinois highway commissioner, will replace Turner as director of the Bureau of Public Roads.

The 60-year-old Turner takes over the job from President Lyndon B. Johnson's FHA administrator, Lowell K. Bridwell, who resigned in January.

firm has no need for the water main since it has its own water for fire prevention.

City officials testified that the 12-inch water main was installed to serve the fire prevention needs of the industrialized area and to provide for the domestic needs of property owners.

Ralph Digison, manager of insurance for the railroad company, said the railroad has a water reservoir for cooling its power plant which could supply a million gallons of water if a fire required extra water.

Board members said the water main would also benefit the property value of eight acres of railroad land which is undeveloped.

Railroad officials said the company has no plans now to develop or sell the land.

Several board members indicated, however, that the main upgrades the value of the property and that the land could be either developed or sold at a later date.

Tax Office Won't Need Added Appropriation

State Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil said Monday his department will make it through this fiscal year ending June 30 without the need for a supplemental appropriation from the Legislature.

"It will be very close," he said, "but I don't foresee any problems in running out of budget money."

The tax department is operating on a $6.2 million budget for the 1967-69 biennium.

McNeil said income tax returns are now averaging 9,000 to 10,000 daily, including Saturdays.

The department has added 36 temporary employees and is working four to five hours overtime four nights a week and all day on Saturdays.

McNeil said the additional payroll has had an impact on the departmental budget, but "I think we'll make it through okay without a deficit."

McNeil said the flow of income tax returns has been "smooth," and this has helped in holding down expenses.

McNeil said the income tax refund checks are being mailed out 10 days to two weeks upon receipt of taxpayer returns that have no complications.

So far, some 50,000 refund checks have been put into the mails, he said.

Bus Passengers Get Off For Fire

A fire in a city bus Monday evening caused the bus driver, Don Siefker, 3250 Adams, to discharge his passengers at 13th and O instead of at a scheduled bus stop.

Fire officials said the fire was extinguished by Siefker who used a hand operated fire extinguisher shortly before they arrived.

Investigation showed the fire started from small pieces of waste paper that had been shoved down behind an instrument panel.

Water And Sewer Rates Boosted 25%

A 25% increase in water and sewer use rates was approved Monday by the City Council.

The new rates will become effective to all meter readings made on and after April 22.

The increase in rates had been sought to help finance city sewer and water system improvements.

The sewer use fee is set at 75% of the winter quarter water figure.

Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker told council members earlier this year that issuing bonds would be the best route to go to pay for the needed improvements.

The increased revenue from the rate increases is intended to provide sufficient debt service to pay off the bonds.

A Lincoln resident, Charles Kitchen, urged an amendment at the public hearing Monday.

He said, "I would appreciate amending the ordinances so that the rates would be reduced once the improvements are paid for." The ordinance was not amended.

Blocker said the new rate would be computed in "hundreds of cubic feet" rather than the present "thousands of gallons."

The ordinance states that one cubic foot of water shall be taken as equal to seven and five-tenths gallons.

Change In Hospital Board Under Study

The possibility of a charter amendment regarding the Lincoln General Hospital Board came to light at the City Council meeting Monday.

City Atty. Ralph Nelson said the amendment would relate to the administrative structure of the hospital.

His comment came following a discussion on the Power Advisory Board's seeking a charter amendment to create an autonomous board.

Nelson said there might be two amendments to be voted on regarding boards. He identified the second as the hospital board.

Study Team

Karl Kopines, legal advisor to Lincoln General Hospital and a member of the city legal department, said following the meeting a study team is working on a alternative administrative approaches to city hospital problems.

Kopines, a member of the study team, said the team has not completed its study yet and that it is impossible now to tell whether a charter amendment would be necessary to solve the administrative problems.

He said the Hospital Advisory Board has not been presented with the study yet.

"The team is only in the investigative stage now," Kopines said.

Hasten Action

Councilman Thomas Allman had asked the City Council to have the Charter Revision Committee hasten its action on the amendment from the power board.

Allman said a great deal of study will be needed on the amendment by the council.

"I hope the council can have the amendment from the Charter Revision Committee by March 1," he said. The council must decide whether or not to place the amendment on the May general election ballot.

13 Africans Die In Railroad Fire

Johannesburg, South Africa (AP) — Blazing gasoline from a capsized railroad tanker gushed into a passing passenger train Monday, turning it into an inferno. At least 13 Africans died in the flames.

Police said 98 persons, including two whites, were hospitalized with serious burns, and at least 100 more were treated for lesser injuries.

Oil Truck Burns; 2 Trainmen Killed

Weiden, Germany (AP) — The engineer and fireman of the Munich-Dresden passenger train burned to death Monday when their train crashed into an oil truck.

The railroad spokesman said the truck crashed through a closed barrier and then stalled on the tracks. It burst into flame when the train struck it.

Korean Climbers Buried By Slide

Seoul, South Korea (UPI) — Ten Korean mountain climbers have been buried under a snow avalanche and are presumed dead in the Sorrak Mountains northeast of the capital, police reported Monday.

The disaster was reported by eight survivors of the climbing team, which was training for an expedition to Mt. Everest.

Not Always Like Pershing

When the Harlem Globetrotters perform their basketball wizardry Wednesday night at Pershing Auditorium, they'll be playing on a fine basketball floor and before a very appreciative, laughing, applauding audience.

But it hasn't always been that way for the Globetrotters, who live up to their name, says Bobby Milton, who served as coach of the team for 10 years, giving up the job a year ago to become the outfit's advance promotions chief.

"The first time we went behind the Iron Curtain to play in Moscow, we were all a little leery of how we would be received," Milton recalled during a visit to Lincoln. "We played the entire first half in silence."

"We were giving them all of our best tricks and we were all putting out 150% because we wanted to make an impression on our first trip behind the iron curtain."

"But the crowd didn't respond at all and Abe (owner-coach Saperstein) was wild with anger. He thought it was our fault and really chewed us out for not putting out."

"After the game, we asked our interpreter what we had done wrong and he explained that it was a Russian custom to remain silent at sports events, but we explained to him that we had to have people laughing and applauding and after that night, things were straightened out and the next nine nights we played behind the Iron Curtain, people overdid themselves."

"When the games were over, we had to remain on the court and a full circle of policemen and ushers surrounded the court to keep the people from mauling us. We couldn't leave the court until the building was cleared."

Popes Pat Feet

Other memorable performances during Milton's career as a player and a coach included performances in private for the past three Popes.

"The thing I remember best about that is that all of them patted their feet to the music of Sweet Georgia Brown (the Globetrotters' theme song)," Milton recalls.

"Then there was the performance for the French Foreign Legion in Africa where the sound of a dribbling basketball was often drowned out by the sound of machine gun fire outside the building."

"This was a strange feeling," he recalls. "But it made us feel good to see these people, who had nothing to smile about, laughing at our gags."

Played On Table Tops

The strangest floor the Globetrotters have ever played on was in Egypt.

"We went into this town," Milton remembers, "and the place where we were supposed to play was long and narrow with no baskets and a very rough, up and down cement floor."

"We made some makeshift baskets, but we knew we couldn't do much on that floor particularly in the way of bouncing a basketball."

"So we got about 200 tables and lined them up side by side and we played that game on table tops."

"One of our players went up for the rebound and we all took off down the floor for the fast break, but the ball never came and when we looked back, we couldn't even see our fifth player. He had disappeared."

"So we went back to the other end to try to find him and he had gone right through the table top when he came down with the rebound."

Milton is assuming that Pershing Auditorium manager Ike Hoig will have a suitable floor and that Lincoln fans will be responsive when the Globetrotters perform here Wednesday night.

PLAYER REQUEST REJECTED

Baseball Club Owners Want No Arbitration

... FINANCIAL CONCESSION MADE

New York (AP) — Major league baseball owners rejected a players' request for arbitration in their pension dispute Monday but added $200,000 to their offer of a $1 million increase in the pension plan.

The over-all increase of $1.2 million would bring the pension monies to $5.3 million. According to John Gaherin, the owners' negotiator, the players want the pension total raised to $6.5 million.

Earlier in the day, the Major League Baseball Players Association disclosed it had proposed submitting the dispute to arbitration, but Gaherin told a news conference, "We don't see any necessity of the intervention of a third party."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, was not immediately available for comment on the owners' rejection and latest proposal.

But Gaherin quoted Miller as saying he would recommend the players reject the new offer.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, said he wasn't surprised the owners rejected arbitration. "But I was hoping they would accept it since it would provide the opportunity for the most rapid means of attaining a settlement," he said.

"We believe their refusal to submit the matter to arbitration indicates they have a real lack of confidence in their position."

Miller called the proposed $200,000 increase "Minimal" progress and said he would recommend it be rejected by the player representatives of the two leagues and 24 clubs.

"Our negotiating committee is quite sure the executive board will turn it down," he said. "That would take only a matter of days. But if we present it to a vote of the entire membership, it probably will take some 2½ weeks."

The owners' previous offer of a million-dollar increase in their contribution was rejected by an overwhelming margin in a mail vote of the players.

No further meetings were scheduled.

"We'll now wait and see what they have to say," Gaherin said. Asked what he thought the players might do, he said:

"If I were to review this latest improvement and balance it against the possibilities of a continued dispute, I think I'd find it very acceptable."

Gaherin said the $1.2 million increase would virtually cover the raises in benefits the players are seeking.

For example, the negotiator said, under the old plan a 10-year player could receive $500 in fixed and variable benefits at age 50.

With the total package of $5.3 million, this figure would be increased to $590, which is just $10 less than the amount the players are asking, Gaherin said.

Gaherin added that the $1.2 million also would cover increases the players have requested in liability, life insurance, health care, maternity and widow benefits.

In proposing arbitration, the players wanted to form a three-man committee made up of one representative of each side plus a third man to be agreed on by both sides.

However, Gaherin said the owners and the players "have all the knowledge required" and don't need arbitration.

In Florida, meanwhile, a skeleton crew of Chicago White Sox pitchers and catchers were on hand for the only spring training camp that's been opened. The New York Yankees and the Washington Senators are scheduled to begin workouts today while the new Montreal Expos are to report that day.

Tipoff: 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Ira J. Taylor Gym, 3rd and Huntington.

The high point of the basketball season for Hastings College occurred at Taylor Gym earlier this season when the Broncos won the Midwest Tournament by beating Doane, 100-98.

It was the only time any team scored 100 points in that facility this year, and since Lynn Farrell's club has won only five games in 18 tries since that early December triumph, the chances of duplication when the Broncos meet Nebraska Wesleyan Tuesday night are probably remote.

Farrell has been disappointed with a club, 14-11 last year, which had five lettermen and four of the state's top high school all-stars coming in.

"The season hasn't been very good as our record indicates. It goes without saying that I'm disappointed. Everyone to a man has had a sub-par season," Farrell said.

Lack of a home court on which to practice has also hurt the Broncos. "I'm hopeful that with our good young kids, we'll come back. We have as fine a group of freshmen as we've ever had."

Farrell made a lineup change early this month which moved the school's all-time high scorer, 6-7 Glenn Mays to center. Hastings has split the last six games. "We're trying to run more and we get more movement with Mays at the post."

The Broncos now are starting 6-4 Ken Bowling and 5-10 Rick Koch at guards, Mays at center and 6-3 freshman Bill Johnson and 6-4 Dave Plak at the forwards.

Wesleyan lost to the Broncos, 87-80 in the Midwest Tournament, but won, 87-83 in overtime at Hastings later in the season.

Plainsmen fans will be watching this game with interest as Kenny Ahl tries to become his school's all-time high scorer. He is now only 46 points away from breaking Rudy Stoehr's 1,617 mark.

Ahl must have his best night of the year to crack the standard. His previous single-game high was 41 against South Dakota State. Chances for his breaking the record appear better against Oral Roberts Feb. 26.

Albion Top-Seeded In 'B' District Meet

Neligh — Albion won a flip of the coin with Ord and was named the top-seeded team in the Class B District Basketball Tournament set for here Mar. 3-4-6-7.

First round pairings pit Albion against Broken Bow, St. Paul vs. Neligh, Valentine vs. Ainsworth and Ord vs. Ravenna.

are in the same order as a week ago, headed by Millard. Gothenburg made an advancement to No. 5 after beating Cozad in the only top ten head-on battle played. Cozad dropped to seventh as a result of the loss.

Two other games. Schuyler-Holdrege and Crete-Geneva, both featuring teams in the top ten, fell victim to the snow.

Laurel was the other Class B team to advance due to the Gothenburg win. The Bears are the only unbeaten B team in the state, but fail to rate a more lofty position because of a weak schedule. Laurel, on the fringe of being a Class C club, still meets a large number of lower division teams.

Millard, on the other hand, experting to move up to the Class A ranks in another year, still gets the No. 1 call despite more losses than any other top ten Class B quintet. All of Millard's defeats have come at the hands of Class A clubs, four of the five to teams in the Class A top ten.

Class C also has little change from the previous week. Hebron fell from fourth to seventh as a result of a loss to unranked Pawnee City and may be in for a more serious problem. The Bears' ace, Dale Haase, is feared to have broken his big toe in the encounter, and may be lost for the important district tourney.

Unbeaten Johnson-Brock moves up a notch as a result, and Grant, the defending state champion in the division, laps past two others to grab the No. 5 spot.

The Plainsmen, in capturing the Frenchman Valley crown, are beginning to act like a team which wants to successfully defend that title.

IT'S ROBINSON CRUSOE

Ames, Iowa (AP) — A 28-foot shot by Jim Abrahamson with four seconds left in overtime gave Iowa State a 76-74 Big Eight basketball victory over Missouri here Monday night.

The overtime victory, booting the Cyclones into the first division, was the fourth this season, and they have won them all.

The game was tied at 66 when Dave Collins hit a jump shot to put the Cyclones on top 68-66 with 10 seconds left. Missouri, working for a final shot, hit Chuck Kundert with a pass that netted a layup at the gun to send the game into overtime.

Bill Cain, who led all scores with 33 points and 16 rebounds, hit the first three Iowa State baskets in overtime which kept the Cyclones even.

Don Tomlinson of Missouri was fouled with 38 seconds remaining in overtime and Iowa State retrieved the missed free throw, setting the stage for Abrahamson's final-second heroics.

The victory enhanced Iowa State's first-division hopes. They are 6-5 in league play and 12-11 overall. Missouri's conference record is now 5-5 and 12-10 overall.

Kansas State 69, Oklahoma 59

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Kansas State gained momentum after intermission Monday night to defeat Oklahoma, 69-59, and stay in the running for the Big Eight Conference basketball title.

The defending champion Wildcats now have a 6-3 league record and stand 11-10 for all games. The victory over OU pushed K-State above the .500 mark for the first time all year.

K-State led at the half, 34-29, and quickly widened that margin to 57-42 with 11:21 to play. That was the Wildcats' biggest lead.

Colorado 73, Oklahoma State 66

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — Big Eight leader Colorado sailed to a 13-point halftime lead and withstood a late Oklahoma State challenge for a 73-66 conference basketball victory Monday night.

The Buffs 8-2 built the big advantage in the first half by hitting 10 straight points in one three-minute span to leave the Cowboys trailing 13-4 and by blanking OSU from the field in the last 4½ minutes before the intermission.

Colorado finished with 50.0 per cent accuracy from the field to OSU's 45.8 and held the rebound edge at 42-34.

In the second half, Oklahoma State generated its most serious threat with 4:13 left when Ken O'Neal's 12-footer pulled the Cowboys within six points at 58-64 but the Buffs slowed the game to preserve the victory.

Weather Man Has Say In 'B', 'C' Prep Ratings

... LAUREL, JOHNSON-BROCK UNBEATEN

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

The weatherman played a big part in keeping the Class B and C high school basketball ratings from having any rash changes this week.

Heavy snow last weekend kept several crucial showdown battles in both divisions from coming off.

Arnold Says Two Pro Golf Tours Necessary

... SHOULD ELIMINATE QUALIFYING

New York (AP) — Arnold Palmer said Monday night that it is inevitable — and imperative — that pro golf establish two tours.

"We now have 350 pro tournament players and only 135 can complete each week-end—we must find some way to sustain the overflow," the game's all-time leading money winner added in an interview.

Palmer, down to a svelte 175 pounds and pointing toward a busy year, was in New York to receive the Richardson Award at the annual awards dinner of the Metropolitan Golf Writers Association.

Dapper in a gray continental suit, the Latrobe, Pa., millionaire faced a barrage of writers' questions just before taking the dais honoring numerous golf personalities.

The main award — the Gold Tee — was presented to crooner Bing Crosby, a devotee and sponsor of the Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur, long a fixture on the winner tour.

Palmer said he was pleased at the appointment of Joseph C. Dey, Jr., formerly executive director of the U.S. Golf Association, as commissioner of the pro game.

"This is a very wise move on our part. We know we could not have obtained a better man," Palmer said of Dey. "But he comes into the job with problems — he is on the hot seat."

"I am sure he can handle them. I think he will be able to upgrade professional golf."

Palmer said the biggest problem is that of utilizing all the talent now available.

"The second tour is the only answer," he added. "I have some ideas of my own."

Palmer said he was convinced that golf could not underwrite two equal tours.

"Baseball has proved that a big city now is unable to support a double attraction. How many cities now have two ball clubs? Very few."

"I think there must be a main tour, and a satellite tour. The satellite tour should be held in a smaller city in the same general area and at the same time with the big tour."

"We shouldn't have qualifying rounds. There should be some arrangement for the leaders of the smaller tour to qualify for the big tour the following week. If necessary, some of the money should be taken from the main tour to subsidize the second tour."

Besides Crosby and Palmer, those honored at the Monday night dinner included pro Claude Harmon of Winged Foot in Mamaroneck, N.Y., and his family as golf's "Family of the Year;" Bill Casper, Player of the Year; Bob Murphy, pro rookie of the year; Open champion Lee Trevino; PGA champion Julius Boros; Masters winner Bob Goulby; Curtis Person of Memphis, winner of the Ben Hogan Award given to the man who overcomes injury; Susie Maxwell Berning, Women's Open champion; Bruce Fleisher, U.S. Amateur champion, and Dey, the new pro commissioner.

Nats Trying To Seal Deal With Ted Williams

Washington (AP) — The Washington Senators went into extra innings Monday trying to wrap up the million-dollar deal that will make Ted Williams manager as well as part-owner of baseball's biggest losers.

A club spokesman said the news conference introducing the fabled hall of fame hitter as the Senators' new manager is not likely to come until "Wednesday at the earliest." There had been earlier talk of doing so Monday or Tuesday.

The rich package of stock is the stumbling block. Attorneys need the time to work out all the details on Williams' ownership and clear the deal with Uncle Sam's scorekeepers in the tax department.

The start of the Senators spring training is less than a week away.

Williams is taking over a last-place club that lost nearly 100 games last year and had the worst record in the majorities. The Senators have been locked in the American League's second division for 22 years in a row.

Williams said he is taking the job as a challenge. He said, "I'm ready to go. I'm really getting excited about it."

Attorneys for both sides were trying to wind up the tangled negotiations that will give Williams the options to buy an estimated 10 per cent of the Senators' stock — a chunk worth $900,000.

Williams will also get a long range contract paying him a salary that could go as high as $100,000 a year.

Senators owner Robert E. Short, who bought the club last month for $9 million, described Williams' stock package as significant in size, but wouldn't go into details.

Reportedly the stock would come from a 20 per cent slice on which former owner James H. Lemon already holds an option through the end of March.

Attorneys have to work out an agreement with Lemon as well as reach a settlement with the Boston Red Sox, from whom Williams is still drawing a deferred salary from his playing days.

Undeclared Japanese Wins 15th Straight

Tokyo (AP) — Kenji Iwata, Japan's undefeated junior lightweight, scored a unanimous decision over Flash Gallego of the Philippines in a 10-round bout Monday.

It was the 19-year-old Japanese fighter's 15th straight victory.

All-Soph Starting Five Boosts York

... PANTHERS EYE TITLE SHARE

By JOHN HINES
Star Sports Writer

It was revenge week for York Junior College last week — and the Panther cagers felt both the success and sting of how it feels.

York started out the week with a 97-69 victory over Northeastern, which, then known as Norfolk, took an 89-86 verdict over York in early January. However, last Friday night, York lost an 88-62 decision to Cloud County, Kan., a team they had beaten previously, 71-63.

As part of the psychology involved, Northeastern went into the York game just off a 91-76 thumping of the McCook Indians, the league leaders in the tight Nebraska Junior College Conference cage chase.

Now, McCook stands 6-1 in loop play, Northeastern 6-2 and York 5-2 and a York victory over McCook February 25 could throw the title into a three-way tie for first provided none of the three lose to anyone else. The odd thing is that McCook already owns two wins over York but York has the home court this time — the same situation as Northeastern-McCook a week ago.

For the record, York's loss to Cloud County stopped a Panther win streak at seven games, longest by any state juko team this year, and leaves them with a 13-4 record.

"We doubtless played our best game of the year against Norfolk — and our worst against Cloud County," York coach Bob Thomas says. "The Norfolk game was a must game for us, as is every one now. McCook's still top dog and they're going to be tough to knock off but we can't think about them before we get to Fairbury (Tuesday)."

"I think probably our greatest strength is our experience. We start five sophomores and two in particular are outstanding players, with the other three real solid."

Slim Goodman and Ken Ware are pacing the Panthers with 21.8 and 21.2 averages, respectively, with Goodman also the team's leading rebounder with a 13-per-game average. He stands 6-4 and hails from Oak Ridge, Tenn., while

SLIM GOODMAN

Ware is at 6-1 and from Maywood, Ill.

Other York starters are center Greg Franz, 6-5, from Henderson, the only Nebraskan who is a regular; guard John Hamm, 6-1, from Isabel, Kan., and Tom Dyer, 6-5 Dallas forward.

The No. 6 man is a freshman, Johnny Golden, 6-1 and 210, who prepped at Oak Ridge with Goodman. "He's real strong and quick and quite a utility man," Thomas says. "We use him all over the court."

Goodman has started full-time both years at York, while Ware and Franz, the third scorer and second rebounder on the club, moved into starting berths just after Christmas a year ago. Hamm was the first substitute guard last year and Dyer was the first sub forward then.

"Goodman's a very complete ballplayer," Thomas thinks. "He has fine speed, jumps and rebounds well. Ware is an outstanding outside shooter with a fine touch and fine driving ability."

"We're hurting on size, though. Cloud County has a 6-7 boy, Dan Wassenberg, who missed the earlier game with us because of the flu, and they really cleaned our plows on the boards in the first half. And it was also our worst shooting night of the year. We've been shooting around 49 per cent for the year but got only about 30 per cent in that game."

Defensively, York uses a half-court pressure plan which Thomas says, "has given us a lotta games against teams with inexperienced guards, although we put more stock in the point spread."

The Panthers are the highest scoring juko team in the state with a 90½-game average and are third in defense.

The regional tourney for Eastern Nebraska and Iowa junior colleges is slated for March 4-8 at William Penn, Iowa, College. Under a new plan, it appears that all three Nebraska teams (York, Northeastern and Fairbury) will make it, for requirements are the 16 best won-lost records against accredited teams among 21 eligible schools...

Don't forget the high spot of another winter sport tonight, the Nebraska at Omaha-Wayne wrestling dual at the UNO Fieldhouse. Currently, Omaha is rated No. 2 and Wayne No. 6 in the NAIA and both are undefeated. Last year Wayne handed Omaha its only dual loss, although Omaha rebounded to finish second to Wayne's fourth in the NAIA Tournament. Omaha hosts that tourney this year, March 6-8.

Hickel Makes Oil Firms Liable For Pollution

Washington (UPI) — Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel Monday issued regulations making oil companies liable for the cost of cleaning up any pollution from offshore drilling on federal leases.

The regulations, effective immediately, make companies responsible for any pollution without the government having to prove they were at fault.

Prior to Hickel's order, regulations stated lease holders "shall not pollute" the sea, but said nothing about liability for pollution.

Hickel toughened drilling regulations in the wake of pollution from a well in the Santa Barbara (Calif.) Channel that stained miles of Southern California beaches.

An Interior Department spokesman noted that Union Oil, owner of the California well that leaked from Jan. 28 to Feb. 7, assumed responsibility for that pollution from the beginning.

At the same time, Hickel granted permission to Union Oil to bleed off gas from its drilling operations. His directive was effective for 72 hours and was aimed at reducing gas pressure which keeps bubbling gas to the surface.

The shallow gas bed is located about 500 feet below the ocean floor. Engineers will punch holes in the casing of a well near the one that blew out to let gas pressure seep from the formation into the casing.

Pakistan Urged To 'Kick Out' Ayub

Karachi, Pakistan (AP) — persons were killed and 55 Brandishing a clenched fist, Zulfiqar Ali Bhutto shouted to a crowd of 250,000 Monday: "This government is tottering. As I said before my arrest, and I repeat it now, the people should kick this government out."

Bhutto, political arch-foe of President Mohammed Ayub Khan, was addressing the crowd at the tomb of Mohammed Ali Jinnah, founder of Pakistan, after a noisy procession through Karachi which stirred a wave of violence, including a gun battle.

The army was called out in the evening to patrol riot-torn areas, where at least three injured, six shops and two dozen vehicles destroyed. Two of the victims died when police opened fire on a mob trying to attack a police station. Earlier, police used tear gas for 90 minutes in an unsuccessful attempt to break up the crowd.

The violence erupted as a coalition of eight opposition parties agreed to meet Wednesday with Ayub for an attempt to end the three months of political crisis. Their agreement followed lifting of a 41-month-old state of emergency imposed during the Indian-Pakistani war by Ayub and the freeing of opposition political leaders from

Bicycle Tagging To Begin Feb. 24

Bicycle inspection and licensing by the Lincoln Police Department will begin Feb. 24 at schools throughout the city.

Police officials said the Lincoln Public Schools are cooperating in the program, which will enable each student to have his bicycle inspected on school grounds.

The former inspection sites were Lincoln fire stations. Students will be required to bring their bill of sale or registration and the 50 cent two-year licensing fee.

The following are inspection requirements:

- Saddle adjusted to the rider and securely fastened.
- Two-inch reflector visible for 300 feet.
- Chain secure and snug.
- Handle grips in good condition and cemented tightly.

—Pedals well lubricated.

—Warning devices operating properly.

—Handle bars adjusted to the rider and tightened.

—Fork bearings lubricated and in good condition.

—Light visible for 500 feet.

—Wheels, coaster brakes, and spokes in good condition.

—Tires properly inflated and inspected for leaks.

detention, including Bhutto. But Bhutto, a former foreign minister, ridiculed the round-table conference in his speech at Jinnah's tomb.

"The country's problems cannot be solved by conferences," he said. "All that is required is a change of the whole system."

Bhutto, a former foreign minister, at first was not invited to the conference, through other parties suggested that he should be. Late in the day, Arub announced he was extending an invitation to Bhutto, from whom there was no immediate response.

Astronaut Visits Columbus Statue In Spanish Stop

Madrid — Col. Frank Borman, whose good-will tour of Europe is showing him to be about as good a diplomat as he is an astronaut, Monday made his first official call in Spain a visit to the statue of Christopher Columbus, where he laid a laurel wreath.

"Now that is a fine thing to do," said a nearby Spaniard. "One explorer to another. They are great men."

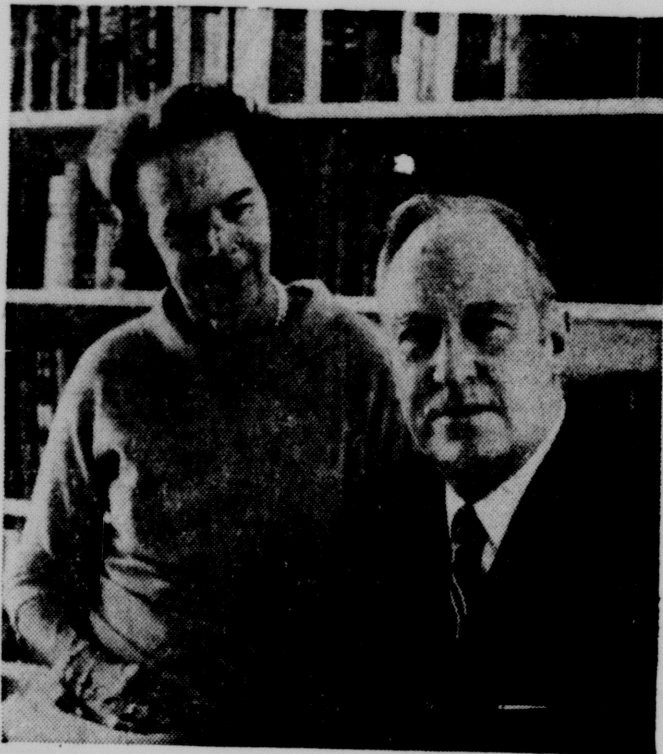

Borman paid a delicately worded tribute to Columbus, whom the Spanish consider one of their greatest heroes. Columbus was born in Genoa, but sailed under the Spanish flag.

"Remember that the organization that supported us contained thousands of people," Borman told a Spanish journalist. "The individual contributions we made were much less than those of the great explorers of the past."

TWO LAWYERS IN ONE FAMILY: Secretary of State & Mrs. William Rogers

In the months ahead, President Nixon's success or failure rests to a great extent on his close friend William P. Rogers, new Secretary of State. What type of man is he? How does he compare with his predecessor Dean Rusk? Will his lack of diplomatic experience be much of a hindrance? LETTER FROM MOSCOW: See Intelligence Report—When you ask the Soviet-man-in-the-street how he feels about the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia, his response depends on whether he is over or under the age of 35. Parade's Intelligence Report reveals the marked difference in feelings of both age brackets in a startling "Letter from Moscow."

THE STORY BEHIND BORMAN'S MESSAGE FROM SPACE—The passage from Genesis read by the three astronauts from the area of the moon, on Christmas eve, stirred the soul of the world as never before. Astronaut Frank Borman who suggested the scriptural reading and prayer, has now told Parade the full story about this most dramatic moment in the recent lunar flight, stating "I saw the evidence that God lives."

Dr. Thompson Designs As State Health Director

Dr. Lynn Thompson submitted his resignation Monday as state health director, effective June 1.

Early speculation on a possible successor involved Dr. R. G. Travnick, Wilber physician and former U.S. Public Health Service physician.

Dr. Travnick, 27, was known to have been considered for the post by the State Health Board at the time Dr. Thompson was chosen a year ago.

The State Board of Health, to whom Dr. Thompson tendered his resignation Monday, lacked a quorum so the group acted as a committee in accepting the resignation. Concurrence by the full board is expected to come later.

Dr. Thompson said he wants to return to private practice but has not decided in what city he would do so. He was practicing in Omaha when tapped for the state post.

Dr. B. J. Moran of Lincoln, health board chairman, named a committee including Dr. A. A. Lidolph of Lincoln, Sister Paschala Noonan of McCook, Robert Jones of York and Dr. Warren Bosley of Grand Island to seek a new director.

Dr. Thompson, 52, has been health director for the past year when he accepted the post replacing Dr. E. A. Rogers.

Sources said Dr. Thompson was disappointed with what he considers the slow pace of government programs and wants to return to the "close patient-doctor relationship" he had known in private practice.

Dr. Thompson has been considering resigning since last August, the sources said, but decided to wait until this summer to help with the preparation of the department's budget.

Drive Has Netted $100,000 So Far

The Tabitha-Madonna campaign to raise $500,000 has already netted slightly more than $100,000, special gifts division chairman Kenneth Witt said Monday at a meeting of the division.

The special gifts division alone has a goal of $175,000 and about $10,000 of that total has been raised, Witt noted.

The division workers met Monday to get the names of potential givers they will solicit in the campaign.

The first report meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 26 at the Lincoln Center and Witt said he hopes to have 80 to 85% of the collections in. A backup meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 28 at the Lincoln Center.

The Tabitha-Madonna Trust is working on the campaign to help finance a $3.65 million building and expansion program which would add 169 beds to the two nursing homes.

The goal is to raise $500,000 in the community and the remainder will be provided from church and federal funds.

Wheatmen Ask To Help Load Ships

... Hit By Strikes

Ogallala (UPI) — One-hundred twenty-three farmers from the Nebraska-Wyoming Wheatgrowers Association Monday voted to offer their services to load wheat on ships tied up by strikes at gulf ports.

Farmers from the organization offered to furnish their own scoop shovels and transportation "to alleviate the drying up of wheat exports" until the 58-day strike is terminated.

The wheat has accumulated at Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports because of a dock strike by the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association. ILA officials in New Orleans said the strike there and in other gulf ports will last at least 10 more days because of disagreement over local issues.

The farmers also offered to work at the contested labor scale and to donate half their wages to the Longshoremen's Union.

Association President Ervain Friehe of McCook said, "The loss in exports of 1½ to two million bushels of wheat daily results in losses not only in exports and in cash prices to producers, but to the grain trade as a whole — and directly affects balance of payments and trade to the U.S. economy."

'Suffering Losses'
He said, "wheat growers feel that after many years of successfully developing foreign markets with their product and then seeing the longshoremen's union completely isolate these markets for 58 days, that something must be done."

Friehe added, "Nebraska-Wyoming Wheatgrowers are suffering large financial losses each and every day the strike continues."

The action took place at the regular monthly meeting of directors of the association.

AWOL Marine Ends Own Life As FBI Arrives

Omaha (AP) — A Marine private first class shot himself fatally Monday as FBI agents arrived at his home to arrest him, police said.

He was identified as Billy F. Davenport. The FBI said the Marine Corps had alleged that Davenport had deserted.

The agents called at the home, the police report said, and learned from the Marine's father that his son was in the basement.

The report said two shots were heard and Davenport was found wounded in the mouth by a .22 caliber bullet. Acting Coroner George Sullivan ruled the death "self inflicted."

English Speaker Due At Kennedy

Wahoo (AP) — A professor at the University of York in England, Dr. Eric Sigworth, will deliver a convocation address at John F. Kennedy College here on Feb. 26, the school announced Monday.

The British economist will trace the various ways in which Britain has withdrawn from a position of world leadership. His speech is entitled "The British Retreat from Pre-Eminence."

SKIN INSURANCE

Is your skin insured against winter? Just as we insure our homes against damage by wind, Gilmour-Danielson Drug advises that we insure our complexions against winter wind burn, drying and creams and lotions. A wind burn is not only uncomfortable, but could lead to other skin problems. If you've already experienced winter skin problems, stop in at either Gilmour-Danielson Drug location and pick up a soothing-healing lotion.
